INTERNED CHINESE TROOPS MUTINY

FRENCH SOLDIERS ATTACKED

Shots Fired When Rioters Rush At Foreign Guards

Shanghai, Aug. 20.
Following close upon the "Doomed Battalion's" outbreak on August 11, and in many aspects resembling it, a riot of a very violent character broke out last night in one of the Chinese military internment camps in the French Concession. About 100 soldiers were implicated and at least one is believed to have been killed by rifle bullets.

The trouble started when a French sergeant was calling the roll, when suddenly and without warning, the interned men broke their ranks and set upon him. Two other French soldiers were also attacked.

Although the French authorities are maintaining almost complete secrecy in the matter, one unconfirmed version of the affair says that the guards were forced to fire on the Chinese, who were allegedly using bottles and clubs against the French.

It is believed that at least one Chinese was killed and that many others are suffering from bullet wounds.

One interpretation of the affair is that the men in the French Concession camp had heard of the recent riot by the "Doomed Battalion" and had decided to stage a "sympathy" mutiny.

Quiet was restored in the camp after about 25 minutes of conflict. All officers in the camp have been removed from contact with their men. —Reuter.

BRITAIN AROUSED AT OFFICIAL'S ARREST

Views Conveyed To Berlin

London, Aug. 20.
The Government has requested the British Minister in Berlin to inform Herr von Ribbentrop, the Foreign Minister, that it takes a serious view of the arrest of Captain Kendrick, British Passport Control Officer in Vienna, who was seized by German police as he was crossing Germany en route to England, on leave.

The British Minister has been requested to seek a full and speedy explanation of the arrest.

In an interview yesterday with Herr von Ribbentrop, the British Ambassador received an assurance that a full inquiry would be made immediately, and it is expected in London that the latest representations will lead to Captain Kendrick's release. —Reuter.

Investigate Bombings At First Hand

Barcelona, Aug. 20.
Within 24 hours of their arrival to investigate the bombing of open towns in Spain, the British Mission was disturbed by three air raid alarms and the hundredth air raid on the city.

Early this morning eight insurgent planes bombed the heart of the old city, killing 16 and wounding 90 civilians. —Reuter.

Chinese Resist Stoutly

Unwavering Under Constant Heavy Pressure

Hankow, Aug. 21.
Despite heavy Japanese artillery and naval bombardments and infantry attacks, the Chinese are still holding on to their positions in the vicinity of Chuchwang, west of Kiukiang, according to a Chinese communiqué.

When the Japanese troops attacked at dawn on Thursday, with aircraft reconnoitring and bombing the Chinese positions, the Chinese troops swept the Japanese with heavy machine-gun fire, inflicting heavy losses and breaking the Japanese lines.

Meanwhile, over ten Japanese warships have now penetrated above Kiukiang and are subjecting the Chinese positions the severest bombardment. —Reuter.

CHINESE GAIN UPPER HAND.

Mahwelling, Kiangsi, Aug. 20.
The Chinese continue to gain the upper hand on the south bank of the Yangtze River.

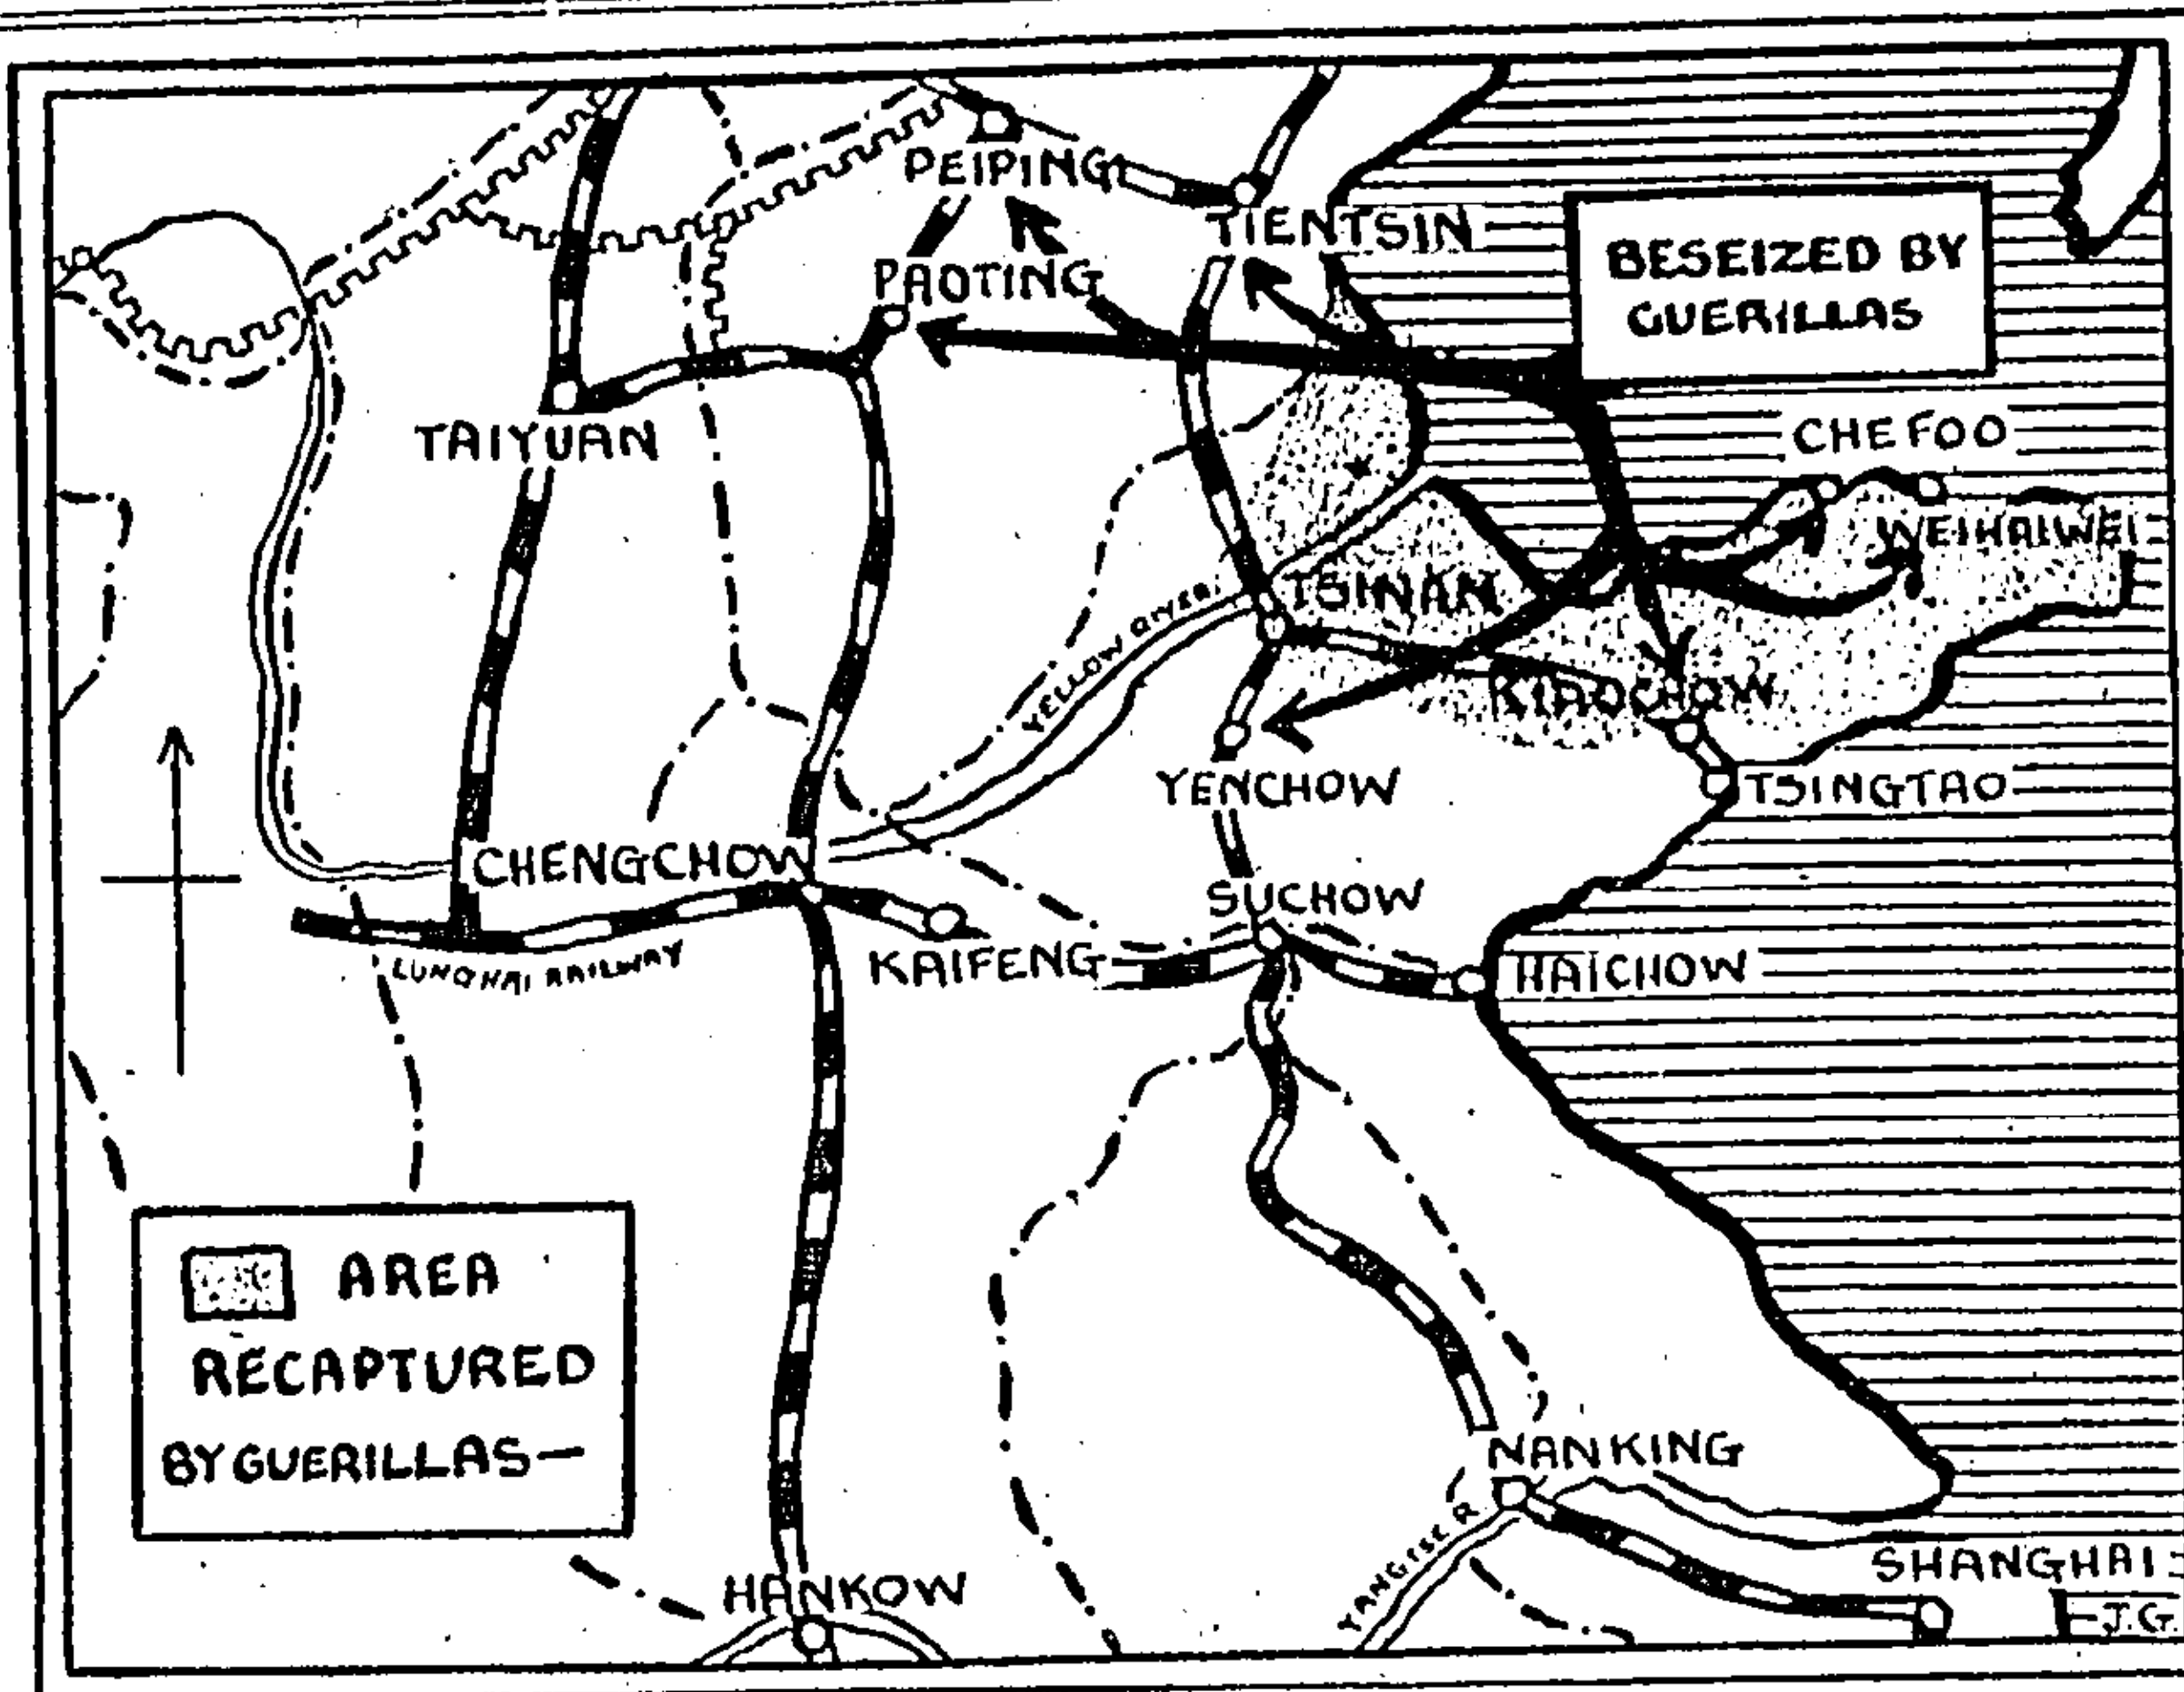

Military reports received here state that a Chinese column succeeded in smashing its way to the immediate outskirts of Kiukiang on Thursday and occupied Shankow, a point outside the city, for four hours. However, it later withdrew when the Japanese allegedly resorted to the use of poison gas to stem the advance.

The Chinese troops, assisted by large guerrilla bands are now taking the initiative on the south Yangtze bank, constantly attacking the enemy Chinese aircraft have been staging daily raids on Japanese troops and warship concentrations in the Kiukiang and Chiu sectors.

Indicative of Chinese confidence, farmers who formerly fled from the war zones have now returned and are reaping their harvest.

According to an account in a diary seized from a high Japanese officer, (Continued on Page 4.)

18 Killed in British Ship by Franco's Bombs

POWERFUL GUERRILLA UNITS are operating in the north, but nowhere have they been more successful than on the Shantung Peninsula, where they have finally succeeded in recapturing the important city of Tsinan after raiding it many times and reducing the Japanese garrison to a skeleton force. They are literally besieging Peiping at the moment, according to Chinese reports.

Three Germans Executed For High Treason

Berlin, Aug. 20.
Another three Germans have been executed for high treason, bringing the total number of executions under this heading since the beginning of the year to 22.

The three men beheaded this morning were Karl Wichoff, Peter Helmz and Wilhelm Braun. —United Press.

BRITAIN WON'T BE BRIBED

Assurances Given Quo Tai-chi

London, Aug. 20.
In connection with the impending conversations between Sir Robert Craigie, British Minister in Tokyo, and General K. Ugaki, the Japanese Foreign Minister, Dr. Quo Tai-chi, Chinese Ambassador in London, called at the Foreign Office this afternoon.

Dr. Quo Tai-chi drew attention to the suspicions, which appeared to be supported by various reports from Tokyo, Japan was proposing an arrangement to Great Britain whereby Japan would agree to leave the Yangtze Valley clear for British interests on condition that Britain agreed to give Japan a free hand in North China.

The Chinese Minister pointed out to the Foreign Office that if Japan made such proposals it entirely ignored the obvious fact that Japan had invaded China in violation of solemn treaties to which she was a signatory and, secondly, China could never accept an arrangement of such a nature.

It is understood that Dr. Quo Tai-chi received a full assurance that there was no ground whatever for any anxiety on his part of the nature described. —Reuter.

SCIENTISTS TO MEET

London, Aug. 20.
Sir Albert Seward, the famous biologist and scientist, has been elected President of the British Association for the meeting to be held in Dundee next year.

Invitations for future meetings of the Association have been made and accepted from Newcastle for 1940, from Belfast for 1941 and from Birmingham for 1942. —Reuter Special.

CZECHS' ONE HOPE OF SOLVING CRISIS IS LORD RUNCIMAN

Prague, Aug. 20.

Though both the Czech Government and Sudeten delegates declared their willingness to continue negotiations, it is pointed out that there is now no basis upon which to proceed.

Under the circumstances, the full benefits of Lord Runciman's detached position as an adviser is likely to come into play and both sides are looking to him for a lead which might serve as a basis for further negotiations.

There is a growing belief that Lord Runciman may elaborate some plan based on the old Hungarian system of Juda, which is analogous to the German Gaue (regions). This would involve the establishment of three German regions with homogeneous German populations responsible for their own affairs, in much the same manner as Northern Ireland.

The Czechs, as well as other minorities, will have representation and will be treated on the same footing as the German minorities in the Czech regions.

The Czech, Hungarian and Slovak parts of Czechoslovakia will be similarly divided, with as homogeneous a population as possible.

All regions will be asked to send representatives to the central Parliament in Prague, which will be responsible for defence, finance and foreign policy.

It is felt in Czech circles that a proposal on these lines might serve as a basis for discussion and it is believed that such a plan would go a long way to meet the eight points of Herr Konrad Henlein's Sudeten platform. —Reuter.

BOUNTIES FOR BOMBED

Hankow, Aug. 20.
General Chen Chen, Commander-in-Chief of the Chinese forces defending Hankow, has decided to appropriate $200,000 for the relief of war refugees in his area.

In view of the pitiful state of the families of bombing victims, the Chinese authorities have decided to pay $30 to the family of a person killed, $20 to a person seriously injured and $10 to anyone slightly injured. —Reuter Special.

30 ARABS SLAIN IN PALESTINE

Thousands Of Men Scour Country For Terrorists

Jerusalem, Aug. 20.

At least thirty Arabs have been killed and many wounded in clashes with British troops during the past 48 hours.

The military authorities state that the present drag-net operations are the largest undertaken since the inception of the disorders.

Several thousand troops are scouring the entire country-side, tracking down terrorists, R.A.F. planes are being extensively used to assist them. —United Press.

BERLIN BOURSE IMPROVES

Berlin, Aug. 20.
So far there has been a general recovery up to five points in the upward movement on the Bourse and comparatively small offers have been readily absorbed.

Reichsbanks were sound after an initial improvement of 2 1/2 points. —Reuter Special.

THREE VESSELS OF SAME LINE UNDER INSURGENT ATTACK

Second Ship Sunk After Attempt at Beaching

London, Aug. 20.

Eighteen members of the crew of the British steamer Stanbrook are believed to have been killed when their vessel was attacked by insurgent bombers in Barcelona harbour.

Lloyd's Tangier agent reports that the British steamer Stanforth, of the same line, has sent out an SOS call, stating she was being attacked by insurgent planes 15 miles west of Barcelona. She reported herself in need of immediate assistance.

Later, however, the master of this ship sent a radio report to the effect that the insurgents' bombs had all missed his ship. He was then proceeding to Oran, he said. —United Press.

Reuter adds that the Stanhope, which has been bombed on several occasions, was the target of seven insurgent bombers. The vessel started to sink and an attempt was made to beach her.

Beaching operations, however, were futile, as the ship ultimately sank.

Reuter reports that there were no casualties.

BRITAIN'S ITALIAN RELATIONS MUDDLED

Agreement Waits Upon Franco's Victory

Rome, Aug. 20.

It is acknowledged here and in London that the Spanish question, which was the subject of further discussion to-day between Lord Perth, the British Ambassador, and Count Ciano, Italian Foreign Minister, is the key to completion of the Anglo-Italian Agreement.

Generally, Italy appears as anxious as ever to see the Agreement completed, but at the same time the country is showing no signs that it will abandon its insistence on an insurgent victory in Spain.

General Franco's success in checking the Loyalist advance across the Ebro River has revived Italian hopes that the end of the war may not be too long delayed.

The only chance of reaching a settlement in Spain, and thus fulfilling the essential conditions for the completion of the Anglo-Italian Agreement still seems to reside in patient work along the lines of the British plan for the withdrawal of volunteers, but from the Italian point of view the reservations contained in Barcelona's reply to the British plan are likely to cause further delay. —Reuter.

Dykes To Be Repaired

By 45,000 Coolies And $2,000,000

Hankow, Aug. 20.

The Chinese Government has completed plans for the repair of 170 miles of dykes along the Yellow River at a cost of $2,000,000.

Forty-five thousand coolies are already employed repairing and building up the dykes near Chengchow, junction of the Lunghai and Peiping-Hankow Railway which was within the grasp of the Japanese when they were driven back by the floods in June.

Half a million refugees are in the vicinity of Chengchow, Chungmow, Yushih and Fukow. —Reuter Special.

MOROCCAN ARMY ATTACKS

Burgos, Aug. 20.
The insurgents began intensive operation in the Ebro sector at dawn to-day, with the Moroccan Army Corps entering the field.

A communiqué claims that the attack is developing satisfactorily. —Reuter.

LOYALISTS CLAIM VICTORIES

Hendaye, Aug. 20.
The Loyalists claim to have won victories on the north-east and south. (Continued on Page 4.)

STOP PRESS

CHINESE ATTACKING HSUCHOW

Chengchow, Aug. 20.
Chinese guerrilla troops are attacking Hsuehchow, important junction of the Lunghai-Pukow Railway and the Lunghai Railway. Fighting is said to be raging in the immediate suburbs.

The Japanese garrison unit at An-chwang, east of the city, has been routed in an engagement. About 100 Japanese were killed, and three trucks and thirty cases of gasoline and a large quantity of arms and ammunition were seized by the guerrillas.

Large sections of the railway track and telegraph wires at Chinsihuan, a hill west of the city, have been damaged by the guerrillas. —Central News.

MISSION BOMBED

Peiping, Aug. 20.
News has reached Peiping that the French Catholic Mission at Takow-tun, 50 miles west of Peiping, was bombed by Japanese planes on Thursday morning, despite the fact that no guerrillas or refugees were in the vicinity.

Two French priests narrowly escaped, and bombs landed near the Church without damaging it. Two other buildings belonging to the Mission were badly damaged. —Reuter.

HAVE you noticed the difference that even a few flowers can make to a room? What a friendly, cared-for atmosphere they bring in the home? In summer, particularly, the sitting room can look unbecomingly bare if you don't do something to fill the empty fireplace and have a few extra vases about to make up for the absence of fire and lamplight.

Keen gardeners, I know, don't like robbing the garden for the house, but careful picking here and there should not spoil the show, and in many cases encourages new and better flowers to bloom.

When I buy shop flowers, by the way, I usually look for two or three bunches with stems of about the same length and in colours which will harmonise and then arrange mixed bunches in the flower vases.

You have probably noticed that some flowers, particularly the more delicate blue ones, do not always look their best indoors.

Lavender, lily, lupin and delphinium sometimes have a rather washed-out look, but they are lovely with a few spikes of pink gladioli, stocks, pink carnations, Sweet Williams or roses, any or all of which give a colour contrast. You will find that they so charmingly together.

You could use a bunch of this kind, loosely arranged in a large off-white pottery jar, together with a few leaves or field grasses, in the fireplace.

Or if you have the sunk type of fire, with no metal bars or screen in front, an oblong-shaped vase filled with shorter-stemmed flowers like stocks or mimosa could stand inside the grate and fill it in a charming way.

Pot Plants

Two rows of pot plants, the taller ones at the back, are another idea for this type of grate, and with care they will last right through the summer.

The newest colours in vases for table and room decorations are off-white and a pale beige shade called mushroom, which you can have plain or decorated with gold.

An advantage of these two neutral colours is that they will not clash with any particular scheme, for they go well with most colours and you can use the vases quite happily in one room or another as necessary.

Imagine, for example, two little

Naldera On Last Voyage

When the P. and O. ship Naldera, 10,000 tons, leaves Hongkong to-day, she will end 20 years' association with the Far East, for the ship has already been sold and will go to the shipyards for breaking up after the passengers have disembarked at London.

The vessel was built at Greenock, Scotland, in 1918, and has been on the Far East and Australian runs ever since.

Not the only one to regret the passing of the Naldera is the second saloon barman, "Tubby" Powell, who has been one of the ship's crew for the last 10 years.

"Among the experiences which I call to mind at once is one when we were delayed by a fog in the Red Sea. This happened in July, 1935, and was very unusual," said Mr. Powell yesterday.

"Tubby", now aged 50, with 34 years' service with the company, remembers suicides, deaths, births and other unusual occurrences aboard the ship. He knows most of the regular travellers by P. and O., and they all remember him.

ITALIANS READY FOR TRADE WAR

Rome, Aug. 18. Italy is prepared to wage a commercial war with Great Britain, declares Virginia Gayda in Giornale d'Italia, in commenting on reports that British export firms have been instructed to throttle down on their deliveries to Italy.

Signor Gayda reveals that a discrimination exists between the British exports to Italy, which grew rapidly from 193,000,000 lire during the first half of 1937 to 369,600,000 for the same period in 1938, and the Italian exports to England, which totalled 285,200,000 lire for the same period.

These figures, he emphasises, indicate that Italy has respected the British wish to increase their imports from England, but England made no attempt to favour the Italian markets in a similar degree. Instead of recommending throttling of the British exports to Italy the British President of the Board of Trade would have done better to have urged the British importers to buy more Italian goods. That he has not done so is a clear indication that England wishes to reduce her commerce with Vivid pink and mauve anemones, with their pretty foliage, make a cool scheme in an oblong pottery trough. Set them between two candlesticks on the mantelpiece in front of a round mirror.

The horn of plenty has been revived as a flower vase. In palest green, filled with red poppies and ripe corn, what could be more attractive? Flowering grasses can take the place of corn.

Shell-shaped vases are new and decorative. Pictured above is one in off-white pottery, which sets off to advantage sprays of red roses.

Shell-shaped vases in off-white glazed pottery as decoration for the dining-room table.

You could place these together on a pale green organza mat or a round of mirror glass, and fill them from day to day with gleanings from the garden: sprigs of forget-me-not or mimosa, a few pink, one or two roses, sweet peas, and so on.

If you have candles on the table as well, choose a colour which will harmonise with the prevailing colour of the flowers. Pink candles look lovely with blue forget-me-nots, vivid green with nasturtiums or marigolds, pale green with roses, sweetpeas or violets.

Table Decoration

A single shell vase is pretty on a bureau or side table, especially if you arrange the flowers in it carefully so that they appear to be spilling out of it.

Another pretty table arrangement is a series of flower troughs complete with candle holders. The holders are actually miniature pots, rings, and they and the troughs can be arranged to decorate the table in half a dozen different ways.

The latter are very shallow, so keep them for flowers too short for other vases or for the odd windfalls from the garden.

Victorian Posy

Talking of windfalls, one floating bowl is useful to take a full blown rose head or two, or modest pansies, and is charming for the dinner table.

You can get these bowls in deep smoke-colour glass, and there are small glass ones with a broad flat rim in the same colour.

I have seen a tight little Victorian posy arrangement with a rose in the middle looking very effective in one of these. The dark glass rim makes a frame for the flowers.

The wall vase is another Victorian fashion which is becoming popular, and it looks well in a modern room.

Fish in Batter

THOSE who say that cod is tasteless will like it cooked in batter.

Mix together 4oz. flour, a pinch of salt, a beaten egg and sufficient flour to form a stiff batter. Wash and dry the cod steaks, brush each with oil or butter, then dip in the batter.

Fry in boiling fat (wait for the blue smoke to rise) until a golden brown colour, drain on soft paper and serve with parsley sauce.

Italy.

It is not Italy's fault, he points out, that the clearing agreements functions badly and now that England has definitely shown herself disinclined to follow the Italian initiative, Italy will be compelled to resign her good intentions and to seek other markets for the goods she would otherwise have imported from England.

CASE OF COAL

The writer mentions coal as the principal article of import from England, and declares that Germany and Poland can easily replace England in this field. In throttling their exports to Italy, England is merely working to the advantage of other European countries.

Emphasising his opening statement that it is not an uncertainty about the Italian finances but only politics that has motivated the British step, the writer states that this action in itself proves that all talk of commercial solidarity and the importance of international trade relations is empty and meaningless, since Italy doubled her imports from England while Great Britain during the same period of time, progressively reduced hers from Italy.—Trans-Ocean.

bare of pictures, so that you do not blur the effect.

Cornucopia shapes are also used for table vases, and in white or cream pottery they lend themselves to most unusual and attractive arrangements.

Long-stemmed, graceful flowers are necessary for these vases, and the best effects are obtained with few blooms, for they fall more gracefully if they are not overcrowded.

Two or three spikes of delphinium with leaves is one suggestion; poppies and graceful grasses is another. Cornucopia vases are rather tall for the dinner table, but they are lovely set against the background of a plain wall.

Flowers last considerably longer, by the way, if you spend a little time arranging them in the first place. Rose stems are woody, so help them to take in water by speeling them for an inch or two from the bottom, then split them with a sharp knife.

Longer Life

Delphiniums are less likely to fall if you put a teaspoonful of salt into the vase with the water, and poppies, which are difficult to keep alive once picked, last well if you singe the stems before putting them in vases.

Aspirin has a good effect on drooping flowers. Allow one 5 grain tablet to a small vase, and two or three tablets to a large one. Fill up the vases with tepid water and cut the ends of the flower stalks before you put them in. This is a good tip for flowers with fleshy stalks which are inclined to droop.

It is important, too, to keep both glass and pottery vases clean. To remove green stains wash out with vinegar or ammonia, or put in two tablespoonfuls of coal slack and a tablespoonful of water, shake thoroughly and rinse the vase with cold water.

Romantic Veils and Lace Frills

GIRLS with pretty heads, take note! Everything is in your favour where millinery is concerned. You can get so many charming effects with a length of veiling.

For specially smart "dates" if you want to look romantic, wear your veil long so that it encircles the shoulders.

Shown in the sketch is a practical idea to trim up a small plain sailor shape, and if you find straight brims are rather hard, let the veiling come just over the edge.

Kind Fashion

But, however arranged, veils are definitely kind to women of every age. It is just as well to note that with all these small and sometimes non-existent crowns small hat-pins as well as elastic are needed to keep them in position.

There seems a back-to-nature move emphasised the popular Hungarian note.

SUMMER SALADS

DURING the summer salads are a popular accompaniment to cold meat.

Here are some mixed ones to put into the salad bowl. First, eggs and tomato. This is good with cold beef.

Ingredients: 1 young lettuce, 1lb small tomatoes, 3 hard-boiled eggs mayonnaise, 1 thinly sliced cucumber. Shred the lettuce and arrange in a salad bowl, leave the heart for decoration. If the tomatoes are very small place them in a ring, a little way from the edge so that the lettuce shows.

Pour over the mayonnaise and garnish with slices of hard-boiled egg and finely chopped parsley.

Orange & Mint

Serve this with slices of cold lamb. Ingredients: 2 oranges, 1 tablespoonful of sugar, 1 tablespoonful of young chopped mint, watercress.

Arrange half the watercress on the bottom of a salad bowl. Peel the oranges, remove the pith and cut into thin slices. Sprinkle with the sugar and chopped mint, pour over the salad dressing and garnish with watercress and sprigs of mint.

Nuts & Fruit

Healthful, delicious and nourishing. Ingredients: 1lb. chopped Brazil nuts if obtainable, or walnuts or almonds, 1lb. sultana (washed and dried), 2 eating apples, half an endive, or mustard and cress, 2 bananas.

Chop the nuts, and apples coarsely and mix them with some mayonnaise. Place in a dish with a border of endive or mustard and cress and sliced banana on top.

Sauces To Serve With Sweets

THE first step in sweet sauce making is the most important, and that is to master the art of making a smooth free-from-lumps foundation sauce. That basis can then be variously flavoured so as to appear like a different sauce on at least half a dozen different occasions. But the foundation must be good.

Take, for your sweet sauce, half an ounce each of butter and flour, two ounces of sugar, half a pint of milk, and a tiny pinch of salt. Melt the butter gently in a pan, add the flour and sugar, and mix thoroughly. Warm the milk, add the mixture gradually, and bring to the boil, stirring gradually, and boil three minutes.

The smooth, sweet sauce that results can be enriched by a dessert-spoonful of cream or a teaspoonful of brandy or sherry, or the beaten yolk of an egg, added slowly and oil the fire. It can be variously flavoured with essence of lemon, almond, or coffee, or with chocolate powder or desiccated coconut. Each variety will be excellent.

Egg and Syrup Sauces

Sometimes, for a change, make your sweet sauce with fruit syrup instead of with milk. The other ingredients should also be different. Use half a teaspoonful of cornflour to half a pint of fruit syrup from tinned pineapple, apricots or any other canned fruit. Shake the cornflour in a very little cold water, add the syrup, boiling, and boil five minutes.

A little thinned golden syrup, sharpened with the juice of half a lemon, or a whole orange makes a delicious sauce, and if the juice is stirred in after the sauce is cooked, it puts vitamin C into the pudding course.

With cheaper eggs in the market you can make these two egg sauces without feeling extravagant. Whip together two whole eggs, two ounces of castor sugar, and the juice of one orange and half a lemon. Continue to whip over boiling water till the sauce is thick and frothy.

Another foamy sauce is made in this easy way. Dissolve half a teaspoonful of castor sugar in three tablespoonfuls of boiling water, add the beaten yolk of an egg, flavour as you like and then add the well-whisked white.

Parsley Potatoes

PARSLEY has long been famous for its health-giving properties and its pleasant flavour. It acts as a tonic for the blood, kidneys, and digestive organs and as a sedative for the nerves.

It is excellent sprinkled over salads, or in savoury sandwiches. It goes with hard-boiled egg quite as well as cress, and is very good with cream cheese.

Parsley potatoes are a novelty everyone will appreciate. Roast some medium-sized potatoes in their skins, and when they are soft cut them in half lengthways. Scoop out the flour, mix it with a little butter, seasonings to taste, and a good quantity of finely-chopped parsley. Return it to the skins, put some dots of butter on top of each, and brown under the grill or in the oven.

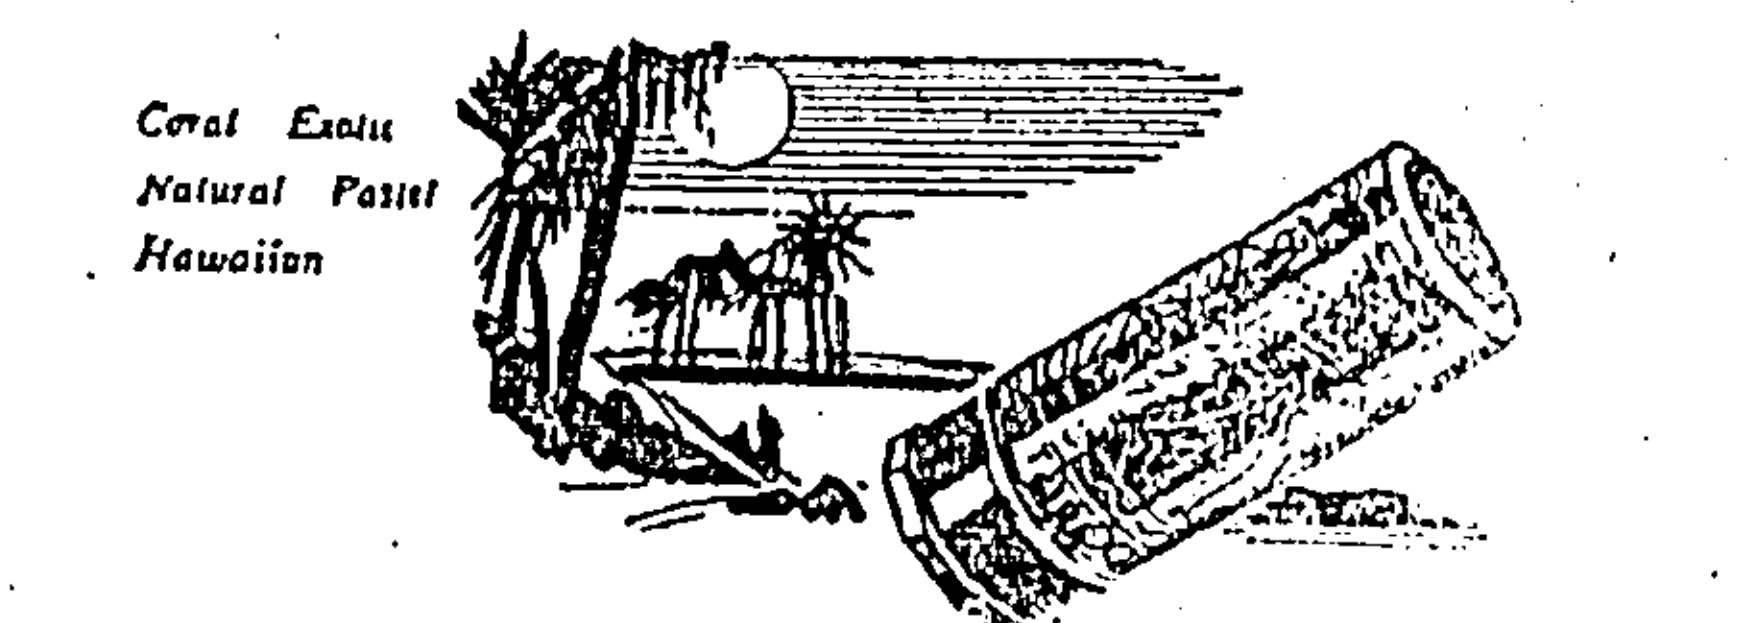

Potatoes treated in this way rescue a cold-meat dinner from dullness.

RANDOM RAMBLINGS

By John Blunt

To me, it seems ages since a "Safety-First" week was staged. This thought actually crossed my mind after experiencing a few journeys over various routes of the Colony by motorbus, the impression gained being anything but complimentary to either the companies concerned, or to the authorities responsible for supervision.

Overcrowding is rife, although in fairness to some of the conductors, an effort is made to check the number of excess passengers. However, the notice displayed which indicates that six standing passengers are allowed, becomes farcical when twice of even thrice that number may be seen at times.

SUN FO RETURNS

With Promise Of Russian Aid

A distinguished personage, Dr. Sun Fo, President of the Republic of China, arrived in the Colony by Imperial Airways yesterday and went to the Peninsula Hotel.

To avoid undue publicity, Dr. Sun Fo and his secretary used the names of Dr. David Yee and Wong Ling. They received a number of important Chinese in their suite during the afternoon, but when asked for a statement on his mission to Russia, Dr. Sun Fo excused himself on the score of business. He also declined to reveal how long he was staying in the Colony, and when he would leave.

Dr. Sun Fo left China several months ago on an undisclosed mission to Russia, and he also saw statesmen in Europe. Rumours of every nature followed his movements but he gave few interviews and even in those he refused to say what understandings he had sought with foreign powers.

Dr. Sun Fo arrived yesterday in the company of Dr. Foo Ping-sheung, L.D., a high official of the Legislative Yuan. A former resident of Hongkong, Dr. Foo has many friends and relatives living here.

RUSSIA TO HELP

Dr. Sun granted an exclusive interview to a representative of the Central News in which he expressed optimism regarding the outlook of the war against Japanese aggression. He believed that final victory would not be far away if the entire people of the nation rally under a single banner and if close co-operation were maintained with the peace-loving nations of the world.

Referring to international affairs, during his recent European tour, Dr. Sun declared that all countries of the world were China's friends except Japan. He said there was not a single people in the world who were not sympathetic towards China's aspirations for racial existence and her holy war for international peace and justice.

Referring to international affairs, Dr. Sun said more active support from Soviet Russia for China would be forthcoming, Moscow, he said, was daily getting itself ready for defence against Japanese aggression.

DID YOU KNOW?

In 1866, treasure worth U.S.$300,000 was reputedly buried on Wake Island by survivors of the ill-fated German sailing bark, Libelle. To date, there is no record of the treasure having been recovered. Digging is, therefore, one of the favourite pastimes of Pan-American Airways personnel who are the only inhabitants of the island.

Since the inauguration of trans-Pacific air service, October, 1936, over 300 women and 50 children have travelled aboard the Clippers.

The shadow on the ground of an aeroplane flying is always the same size, regardless of altitude.

Dry ice, the coldest kind of commercial ice (used to refrigerate food carried aboard many airlines) is pumped out of the desert near Salton Sea, California—one of the hottest places in America.

Coffee prepared aboard high flying aircraft will boil at 194 degrees Fahrenheit. Similarly, a passenger who asks for an egg boiled three minutes (flying at 5,000 feet) will receive one actually boiled 3½ minutes. Both eggs will be just what the passenger ordered. Flight Stewards, when boiling eggs are guided by special charts hung in the galleys.

A U.S.$5,000 air travel insurance policy may be purchased in America for twenty-five cents.

home though I be somewhat stiff from yesterday's walk.

15th.—Bowled this day in the Alleys with a mighty good three and I do benefit much by the example and do exceed six hundred for the first time since I do resume my bowling. Mighty ill news from Palestine and I wish we were well out of it, and did leave these terrorists to slay each other, for there is neither reputation nor profit in it, but only a frittering of the taxpayers' money.

16th.—Very busy at the office all day and later to play at bridge at a house beyond Mount Austin Barracks. And it is the first time that ever I did ride in a motor coach up the road above the Tramway Station. But Lord! I would not love to do so in a fog. Won six florins.

17th.—Up betimes and though I did read until two o'clock last night I am in high spirit and strong of body, after but four and a half hours sleep and do perceive my chrysurgeon had the right of it. Talking at the Clubbe I can get no sure news of the situation in China, even though I ask one who studies it daily. Yet I cannot but feel Japan progresses not as well as she had hoped. Bowled in the Alleys, but very badly. Home by motor coach and dined, and so to bed.

CLAIM PUCHOW TAKEN

Peking, Aug. 19. Unable to withstand Japanese onslaughts from various directions, the Chinese forces defending the Pinglu-Puchow line in south-western Shanai were reported to have begun falling back towards the south.

According to field dispatches reaching here to-day, Japanese forces opened a frontal attack on about 3,000 Chinese troops entrenched in the hilly positions south-west of Kweihien on Tuesday morning.

At 9.30 o'clock in the same morning, the Japanese forces fought their way through the first Chinese line about three miles south of Kweihien.

A contingent of freshly-reinforced Japanese troops struck deep into the sector east of Kweihien and cut off the retreat of the Chinese—Domel.

PUCHOW REPORTED TAKEN.

Shihchiachwang, Aug. 19. Puchow was completely captured by Japanese troops at 8.30 p.m. on Wednesday last. Japanese military authorities announced here to-day.

west fronts, despite heavy insurgent pressure.

Neutral observers state that attacks and counter-attacks are in progress in the Ebro River sector, with neither side making any appreciable gains.

It is reported that 40 Loyalist planes have arrived on the southern front, and their efficiency is chiefly responsible for the delay in the insurgent drive.—United Press.

FOOD SHORTAGE

Perpignan, Aug. 20. Thousands of civilians fleeing before the advancing insurgents on the Estremadura front are flocking into the town of Ciudad Real, which lies immediately behind the Loyalist lines of defence.

A further 6,000 peasants, carrying their meagre belongings, arrived in the town yesterday.

The influx of refugees has made the food shortage in Ciudad Real very acute, and several hunger-stricken people have taken to looting the shops.—Trans-Ocean.

SHANSI FIGHTING

Hankow, Aug. 21. The Japanese are at present shelling Tachikwan on the east bank of the Yellow River, according to a communiqué released here last night. Tachikwan is west of Yungchi, which the invaders captured on the night of August 16.

The Chinese are closely watching Japanese movements in south-west Shansi, where the invaders are attempting to seize once more the Yellow River crossings.

Whether the Japanese intend to invade Honan or Shansi remains to be seen. Meanwhile, the Chinese are sending heavy reinforcements to Shansi.—Reuter.

IMPROVING
SERVICEChinese To Train
Volunteers.

Hankow, Aug. 20.

The Chinese Red Cross and Army Medical Service are intensifying their efforts to improve the treatment of the wounded by enlisting volunteers, who will be sent to the front lines after receiving a month's training in first aid.

The move follows the recent visit to the front line receiving stations of a party under Dr. Robert Lim, head of the Chinese Red Cross.

The party included Mr. Fred Autley, representing the London News-Chronicle who, interviewed on his return here, expressed himself as "horribly at the treatment of wounded soldiers." Most of them, he said, lay at rough receiving stations apparently without care, stoically uncomplaining.

"New plans of the Red Cross include the enlistment of 200 volunteers in the Wuhan cities who will be sent to the Red Cross Medical Training School at Changsha to undergo four weeks' practical first aid training.

The first batch of 25 volunteers will be examined in Hankow this week.—United Press.

LESSON SERMON

First Church of Christ, Scientist, Hongkong

SUBJECT—MIND

The subject of the Lesson Sermon in all Christian Science Churches, to-morrow, August 21st, will be "Mind."

The Golden Text will be "Behold, God is mighty and despoiseth not any; he is mighty in strength and wisdom." (Job 36:5).

Among others the following citations will be read from the Bible, "The Lord reigneth, he is clothed with majesty; the Lord is clothed with strength, wherewith he hath armed himself; the world also is established, that it cannot be moved. Thy throne is established of old; thou art from everlasting. The Lord on high is mightier than the noise of many waters, yea than the mighty waves of the sea. The Lord of hosts hath sworn, saying, Surely as I have thought, so shall it come to pass; and as I have purposed, so shall it stand." (Ps. 93:1-24, Isa. 14: 24).

The following citations will also be read from the Christian Science Textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, "Mind, supreme over all its formations and the central sun of its own systems of ideas, the life and light of all its own vast creation; and man is tributary to divine Mind. The world would collapse without Mind, without the intelligence which holds the wind in its grasp. Neither philosophy nor skepticism can hinder the march of the Science which reveals the supremacy of Mind. The immanent sense of Mind-power enhances the glory of Mind." (Page 209).

STATE
CONTROLS DOLLAR
STEAMERSBig Subsidies For Impoverished Fleet

Washington, Aug. 21.

Controlling interest in the Dollar Line of steamers has been acquired by the U.S. Government.

The Maritime Commission of the Department of Commerce announced to-day that an agreement has been signed under which the Government will acquire approximately 50 per cent. of the company's voting stock. Operations, however, will remain in the hands of the Company.

The terms are contingent upon the subsequent granting of a five year operating differential subsidy, which will amount to approximately U.S.$3,000,000 per annum, and a loan of at least $1,500,000 of the Maritime Commission's funds to repair and rehabilitate the Dollar fleet of twelve vessels.

In addition, the Reconstruction Finance Corporation will advance a loan of approximately $2,500,000 for use as working capital. The Dollar Company's present working capital is practically exhausted and only four ships are operating between California and the Far East.—United Press.

EVIDENCE
AGAINST
J. J. HINES

Accused Listens In Cold Silence

New York, Aug. 20.

James J. Hines, "Tammany" leader charged with bribery and operating illegal lotteries, stared coldly before him as a negro witness, Joseph "Big Joe" Ison, who formerly operated his own numbers betting game, accused him of receiving money from "Dutch" Schultz's gang.

Ison alleged that the money, which he and other gambling operators had turned over to Schultz, was "going to Hines" and that Hines received $400 a week in return for political protection.

Ison added that Schultz finally assumed control of his policy ("numbers" betting) connection and he had to turn over to Schultz $800 a week under a threat of death.

Several policy "bank" clerks from Harlem testified that they had been dismissed in Magistrate's Courts after being arrested during raids on policy banks.—Reuter.

EIRE SENATE
ELECTION FULL OF SURPRISES

Dublin, Aug. 20.

The Eire Senate elections, which were held to-day, provided many surprises.

Thirteen outgoing members have been defeated.

Thomas O'Malley, vice-Chairman of the last Senate, did not receive one first preference vote.

Those elected include Miss Margaret Pearse, Desmond Fitzgerald, former Minister for Defence who was defeated at the Dail elections, and Patrick Hogan, former Speaker of the Dail, who was also defeated at the general elections.

The eleven nominated members have not yet been appointed.—Reuter.

$2,000,000 FOR WAR CHEST

A total sum of $2,000,000 Canton currency was collected during the seven days of "Offer Gold to the State" movement in Canton, beginning on August 13, the first anniversary of the outbreak of Sino-Japanese hostilities, according to preliminary estimates.

The movement, which was to be concluded yesterday, will continue for two more days by request of the Canton populace, it is reported.

HUGE AIR
Concentration At Los Angeles

Washington, Aug. 20.

What the War Department describes as the largest concentration of modern aeroplanes in American history will gather at Los Angeles to-morrow for the annual convention of the American Legion.

In all, three divisions of the General Headquarters Air Force, numbering over 300 machines, will be present, while the majority of the U.S. Navy Air Arm will assemble nearby. Thus the bulk of the nation's air strength will be concentrated in an area of a few miles.

The authorities disclaim that there is any international motive for the demonstration which, however, is part of the Government's general campaign to impress the nation with the need for being prepared.—Reuter.

H.M.S.
MedwayArrives Here

SUN FO DECLINES TO TALK

Expected To Leave For Chungking Soon

Dr. Sun Fo, President of the Executive Yuan, who arrived in Hongkong by Imperial Airways airliner from Europe yesterday, refused to see the Press this morning.

"I have nothing to say," was Dr. Sun's message, relayed through his Private Secretary.

Dr. Sun Fo is residing at the Peninsula Hotel and is expected to depart by plane shortly for Chungking, where he will report to the Chinese Government.

Dr. Sun visited Russia, Belgium and France during his European tour. He is believed to have been responsible for an arrangement under which China received 400 Soviet planes complete with pilots, observers and ground crew, which now form the nucleus of the new China Air Force.

A Chinese agency reported yesterday that Dr. Sun Fo, who is a son of Dr. Sun Yat-sen, Father of the Republic, had predicted a Russo-Japanese War and further material Soviet aid to China.

Hawkers Give $20,000 To War Chest

In the eyes of Chinese in Hongkong, fruit and vegetable hawkers in Shamshuipo, Kowloon, are the greatest patriots in the Colony today. In their three-day campaign of donating the gross proceeds from sales to the Chinese war chest the humble hawkers collected $20,000, amount representing approximately an eleventh of the total sum contributed in the recent "Offer Gold to the State" movement among the Chinese residents in Hongkong.

While no official figure of the total contribution received in the movement, which ended yesterday, has yet been released, it is generally expected that the sum will be about $220,000.

Before End Of Year, Says Home Office

The importance of making every effort to complete the enrolment of the first million A.R.P. workers by the end of the year is stressed in a communication sent by the Home Office to all local authorities and chiefs of police throughout the country in furtherance of Air Raid Precautions recruiting.

Man Leaps From 17th Storey; Had Spent 11 Hours On Ledge

New York. After terrifying New York for nearly 11 hours by perching himself on a foot-wide ledge on the seventeenth storey of the Gotham Hotel, in Fifth Avenue, John Ward jumped to death. Ward was a 26-year-old man from Chicago. His appearance on the ledge followed a family quarrel.

When his figure was seen from the street police roped off the crowds from three blocks of houses in the busiest quarter of central New York. He remained there all the afternoon, threatening to jump while thousands gaped. Women screamed and many fainted while Ward walked along the ledge or sat smoking cigarettes and throwing the ends down into the street.

Exports Drop £25,725,000 in Six Months

While again showing a heavy decline as against a year ago, British overseas trade in June did not suffer any further falling off compared with May this year, so far as exports of British manufactures and produce were concerned.

There was, however, a sharp drop in the re-exports of imported merchandise from the exceptionally high level in May, which was probably due to a considerable extent to the unsettled state of European politics. As a result, total exports were substantially lower.

This is disclosed in the preliminary summary of the monthly overseas trade returns given in Board of Trade Journal.

The figures are:

	June 1938	Decrease on June 1937
Imports	76,501,000	11,681,000
Exports	36,891,000	7,475,000
Re-exports	4,387,000	2,180,000
Total exports	41,278,000	9,655,000

In considering the figures allowance has to be made for the fact that, owing to the Whitsun Bank Holiday, June this year had only 25 working days, as against 26 last year.

Compared with May, imports for last month were higher by £1,109,000. Exports were lower by £1,271,000, and re-exports down £2,190,000, making a decrease in total exports of £3,361,000.

FIGURES DECEPTIVE

When reduced to a daily average basis, however, on account of there being one working day less, it is shown that British exports were fully maintained at the May level, the daily average for June having been £1,475,700, against £1,467,800.

The daily average of re-exports was £199,500, compared with £276,000 in May, and that for total exports £1,075,000, against £1,733,800.

Details of the various industries are not given in the preliminary figures, but the totals of three main groups of British exports compared

DOCTORS URGED TO ADVERTISE

Group advertising by medical profession was suggested by Dr. Colin D. Lindsay in his presidential address at the meeting of the British Medical Association at Plymouth.

He said there was a tendency for the family doctor to sink lower and lower in the estimation both of the public and of the student body from which the profession itself was recruited.

"The practice of medicine itself has been brought into disrepute by the indiscriminate administration of medicines," said Dr. Lindsay.

"The faith of the public in a bottle of medicine is pathetic. I grant it may be used on account of the psychological effect, but often it is quite unnecessary and is only prescribed because the public expect and insist on it."

Hitherto it had been a keystone of medical policy that publicity or advertising was in direct antithesis to the best interests of the profession and of the public alike.

The truth of this in regard to advertising by individuals was, he thought, still undisputed. He considered, however, that some of group advertising by the profession as a whole was seriously overdue.

Taken as individuals, and in times of sickness and stress, there could be nothing quite so touching as the almost blind trust which the public reposed in the science of medicine.

But the public, taken in the mass, and in health, did not trust either medicine or the medical profession. That attitude was an extraordinary blend of ignorance and superstition, in which they had unbounded confidence. He suggested that teaching in elementary biology, anatomy and physiology should be an essential part of all education, however elementary.

went to the window and pleaded to Ward.

"Oh, John, please come back. We love you, and you know it. Come on in and have a drink. You know I have never failed you. I'll help you if you will please only come in."

A priest and a psychiatrist later joined their pleas to Mrs. Bull's.

The crowds began to grow enormously as early workers left their offices and hurried to watch the drama.

JUMPS AT LAST

All traffic, including the Fifth Avenue buses had to be diverted. Photographers were at work taking pictures of Ward from every possible angle. The radio sent out minute-by-minute reports.

The crowd was still increasing when Ward had been on the ledge for 10½ hours.

At last Ward jumped.

The police report that Ward was out of work and that he had been recently released from an asylum.

When Ward jumped he crashed through a glass canopy of the hotel. He landed on the kerb head first, while screams went up from the crowd. Among the spectators was Ward's sister, Mrs. Bull. Ward ignored her. Mrs. Bull wept bitterly.

He remained on the ledge while extra forces of police and firemen were brought up to deal with the ever-gathering crowds.

Ward paced up and down, smoking incessantly, occasionally stopping to rest before threatening to jump. The police tried persuasion and failed.

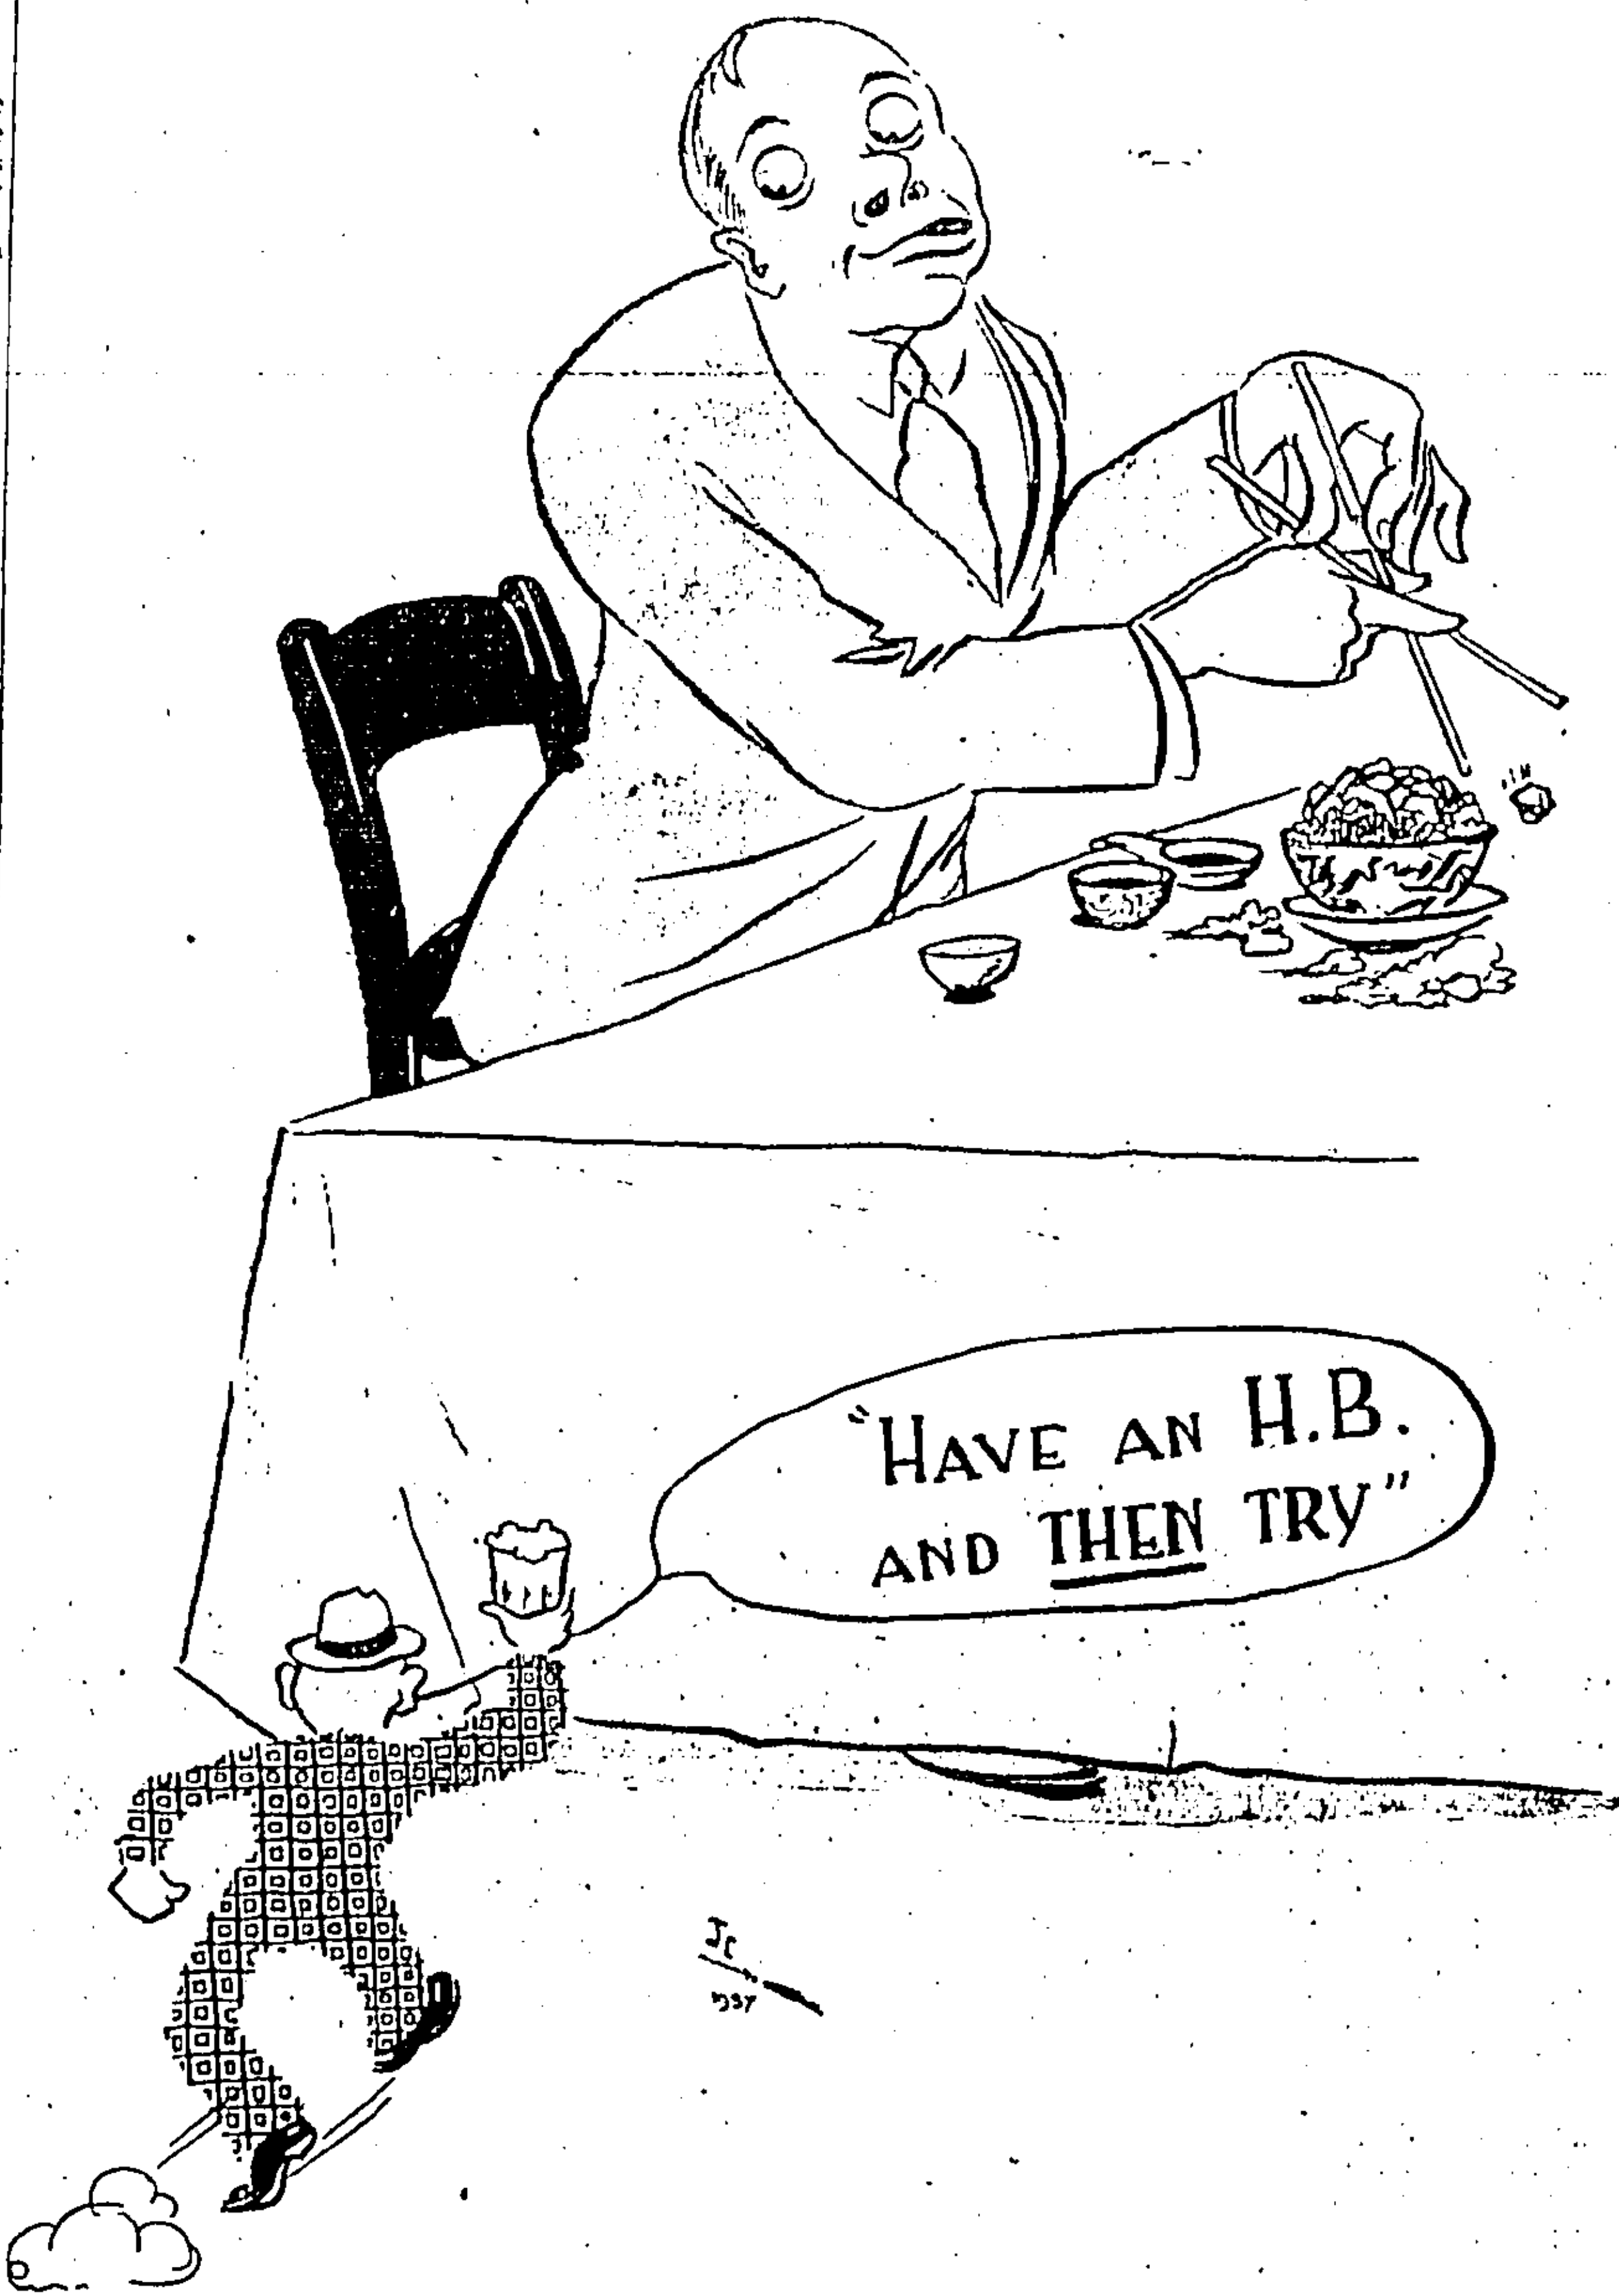

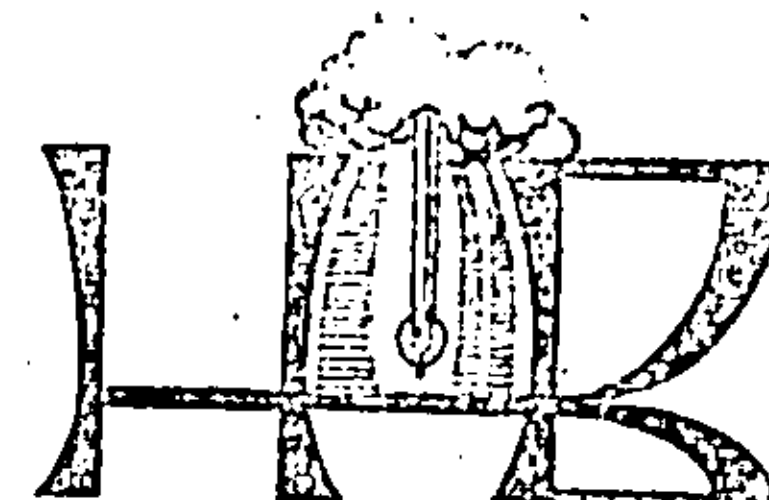

There was a gasp when Ward reached down and took a glass of water placed on the ledge for him through one of the hotel windows.

He picked up the glass, drank the water, and retained his balance easily. He was heard to remark, "I will work this thing out for myself."

After Ward had been on the ledge for 10 hours the firemen and police were preparing to stretch a net parallel to the building from below the sixteenth floor, then pull it up to enclose Ward against the wall and enable him to be pulled to safety.

THREE KILLED IN RIVIERA DOPE GANG FEUD

Cannes. A saloon car draws up at the side of a main street in Cannes . . . the muzzle of a machine-gun appears at one of its windows . . . a revolver is thrust through another.

There is a hail of bullets . . . a man walking past falls dead . . . the car is then driven off at 70 miles an hour, killing two other people in its path.

This grim scene, enacted recently within a few yards of English visitors sitting on a cafe terrace, marks the climax to yet another dramatic episode connected with the world-wide dope ring recently discovered by the French police, concerning which inquiries have been made recently about a woman living in London.

The man who was murdered was handsome, 30-year-old Henri Marguin, once one of the leaders of dope racketeering in Paris.

A month ago he gave information to the police which led to the arrest of Bernard Bessy, who is detained in Paris as an alleged accomplice of Louis Lyon, millionaire restaurateur. Lyon is accused of being a member of the dope-distributing organisation.

French inquiries spread to London last month, when questions were asked about having Mme. Salati, carrying on a lingerie agency in her Gloucester-place, W., flat, extradited.

It was stated that she knew Lyon, and might be able to give helpful information. Mme. Salati, a British subject, declared her innocence of any connection with the dope ring, and said she was prepared to surrender herself should extradition proceedings be started.

LOVE TRIANGLE
The extraordinary circumstances leading to the murder of Marguin include:

A vendetta between two rival dope gangs in Paris, lasting for four years and resulting in four murders and five people being injured;

A love triangle drama, in which Marguin shot dead a dope trafficker who had fallen in love with his fiancée; and

A "sentence of death" passed by racketeers on Marguin, whom they believed was in the pay of the police.

As Marguin drew abreast of the car this morning, one of the men with the machine-gun shouted: "Fire!—that's your man." They hid their faces as they drove away.

Later the police tried to stop a car near Nice by forming a barrier across the road.

The driver drove through the barriers and dashed on.

A policeman jumped on to the running board and ordered him to stop. The driver pulled out a revolver and made him jump off.

Shots fired at the car struck the petrol tank at the back, and set it on fire.

The police eventually found the car abandoned. It is believed that there was only one man left in it when it reached the barriers, the others having escaped near Cannes.

Detectives have rushed here from Marseilles, and high officers of the French Surete Headquarters in Paris are travelling down to-night.

On Christmas night, 1934, a leader of the Paris gang, Charles Foata, was fired on in a bar.

Foata was uninjured, but his five-year-old son was killed.

People in the bar saw a hand thrust round the door, but did not see who fired. Foata, believing that a rival, a Corsican named Jean Stefani was responsible, sent one of his men round to a bar owned by Stefani's brother, with orders to shoot him at sight.

Two hours afterwards police found Stefani's brother lying behind his bar, dying.

Because it is an unwritten law of the "Milieu"—the French underworld—that no member should give evidence in court against another, there were no witnesses for the prosecution when Stefani was tried for the murder of Foata's child. He was acquitted.

He went to the Thiais Cemetery, Paris, to see the grave of his wife. Foata, hiding behind a gravestone, fired, wounding one of Stefani's friends. Foata was arrested and sentenced to seven years' hard labour.

Marguin, a friend of Foata, took his place as leader of the gang while Foata was in gaol, and vowed to murder Stefani.

As Marguin made plans Stefani met Marguin's fiancée, dark-haired Simone Langele, a Montmartre cabaret girl, and asked her to marry him.

Marguin, hearing of this, shot

Stefani through the head in a Montmartre street. For this he was sentenced to a small term of imprisonment, no witnesses coming forward.

A month ago he was released, but the friends of Stefani, determined to carry on the vendetta, plotted to murder him.

"He was followed wherever he went. Desperately he tried to evade his trackers. Once one of them fired at him in a bar near Cannes, but the bullet only wounded him slightly.

"As a last effort to save his life he started giving information to the police. But his enemies closed in on him and shot him like a dog recently. Twenty bullets were found in him."

Mlle. Langele said:

"Even I, although really I have nothing to do with it, am afraid of what may happen. Gangsters once came into the cabaret where I was appearing and tried to drag me away. I fought with them until help arrived.

"It is true I was the lover first of Marguin and then of Stefani, but I was never concerned in dope trafficking."

WOMAN DOCTOR IS SUED BY A WIFE—WINS CASE

Without leaving the box, a special jury gave judgment with costs in favour of a woman in an action at Leeds Assizes brought by a young wife.

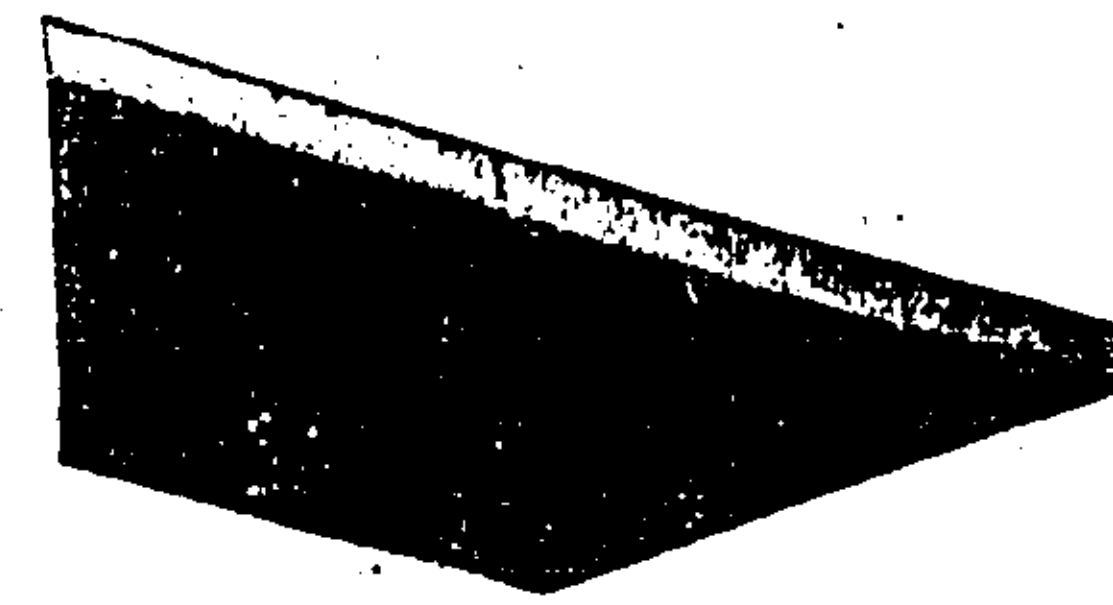

Mrs. Isabella Mary Lloyd-Hughes, wife of an insurance official of Spenthorpe Avenue, West Park, Leeds, claimed damages for alleged negligence from Dr. Florence Slade, of Chartway, Reigate, Surrey.

Dr. Slade denied negligence, and counter-claimed against the husband for her fees.

Mrs. Lloyd-Hughes it was stated that in May 1933, when she was twenty-eight, she was expecting a baby and consulted Dr. Slade. It was submitted that complications were only discovered by another doctor after some time.

The husband, in the box, agreed with a suggestion from Mr. Justice Goddard that but for the fact that Dr. Slade had threatened to sue him for her bill of £27s. he would probably have never brought the action.

DETERIORATING RELATIONS

There is something very trenchant about the comment of the London Times in summing up the attitude and policy of the Japanese military authorities and Japanese Government respectively towards Great Britain. And the conclusion the Times reaches, that the effect of these is to undermine seriously Anglo-Japanese relations, is one that has suggested itself to others before now. The Times is always careful. It is upon its caution, and its invariable accuracy in editorial judgment, that its reputation has been built, very largely. In this instance, then, the Times, with the voice of authority, has confirmed the suspicions, indeed the convictions felt elsewhere, for some time: that Japanese forces in the field were deliberately attempting to injure British interests and lessen British influence in China; and that the Japanese Government was insincere in its protestations of good faith and a desire to protect those British rights and possessions which its militarists were systematically destroying. The Times warns Japan that in hurting Anglo-Japanese relations that country may be prejudicing its case for the future when it will need the help which a friendly and prosperous Britain might be prepared to provide. The Times, presumably, has in mind the dim and distant period of reconstruction which must face the Japanese when they have returned to sanity and peace, one way or another, their adventure in China. Even consideration of assistance for Japan, financially or in any other way, under the present circumstances, would be too much for the British people to contemplate. Only when Japan has proved to the satisfaction of everyone that her policy of expansion does not threaten the independence of other states, does not effect the possessions or enterprises of Britain or imperil the peace of the Pacific and Asia, only then can Britain consider co-operation. The Times must know this.

It is fairly obvious that the Japanese people appreciate the British position; otherwise the Hochi Shimbun, a very influential daily, would not try to shirk the main issues of Anglo-Japanese misunderstanding, and endeavour to place the blame for the deterioration of the relations of these two competitive powers upon Britain, which the newspaper accuses of assisting China to resist Japan and of adopting a policy of trickery in dealings with Tokyo. In effect, the Hochi Shimbun says that Japan should not treat with Britain in any of the issues raised between London and Tokyo as long as Great Britain pursues her present tactics in the Far East. In other words, the newspaper would have Britain abandon her pledges and her loyalties in return for a promise of consideration for the British claims with respect to her rights and interests in China. It would have a pistol to the head of the British Government to discourage contemplated financial aid to China. Japan, it would seem, has little interest in maintaining amicable relations. Here is a realist policy.

Chinese Physiognomists

By T. Paul Gregory

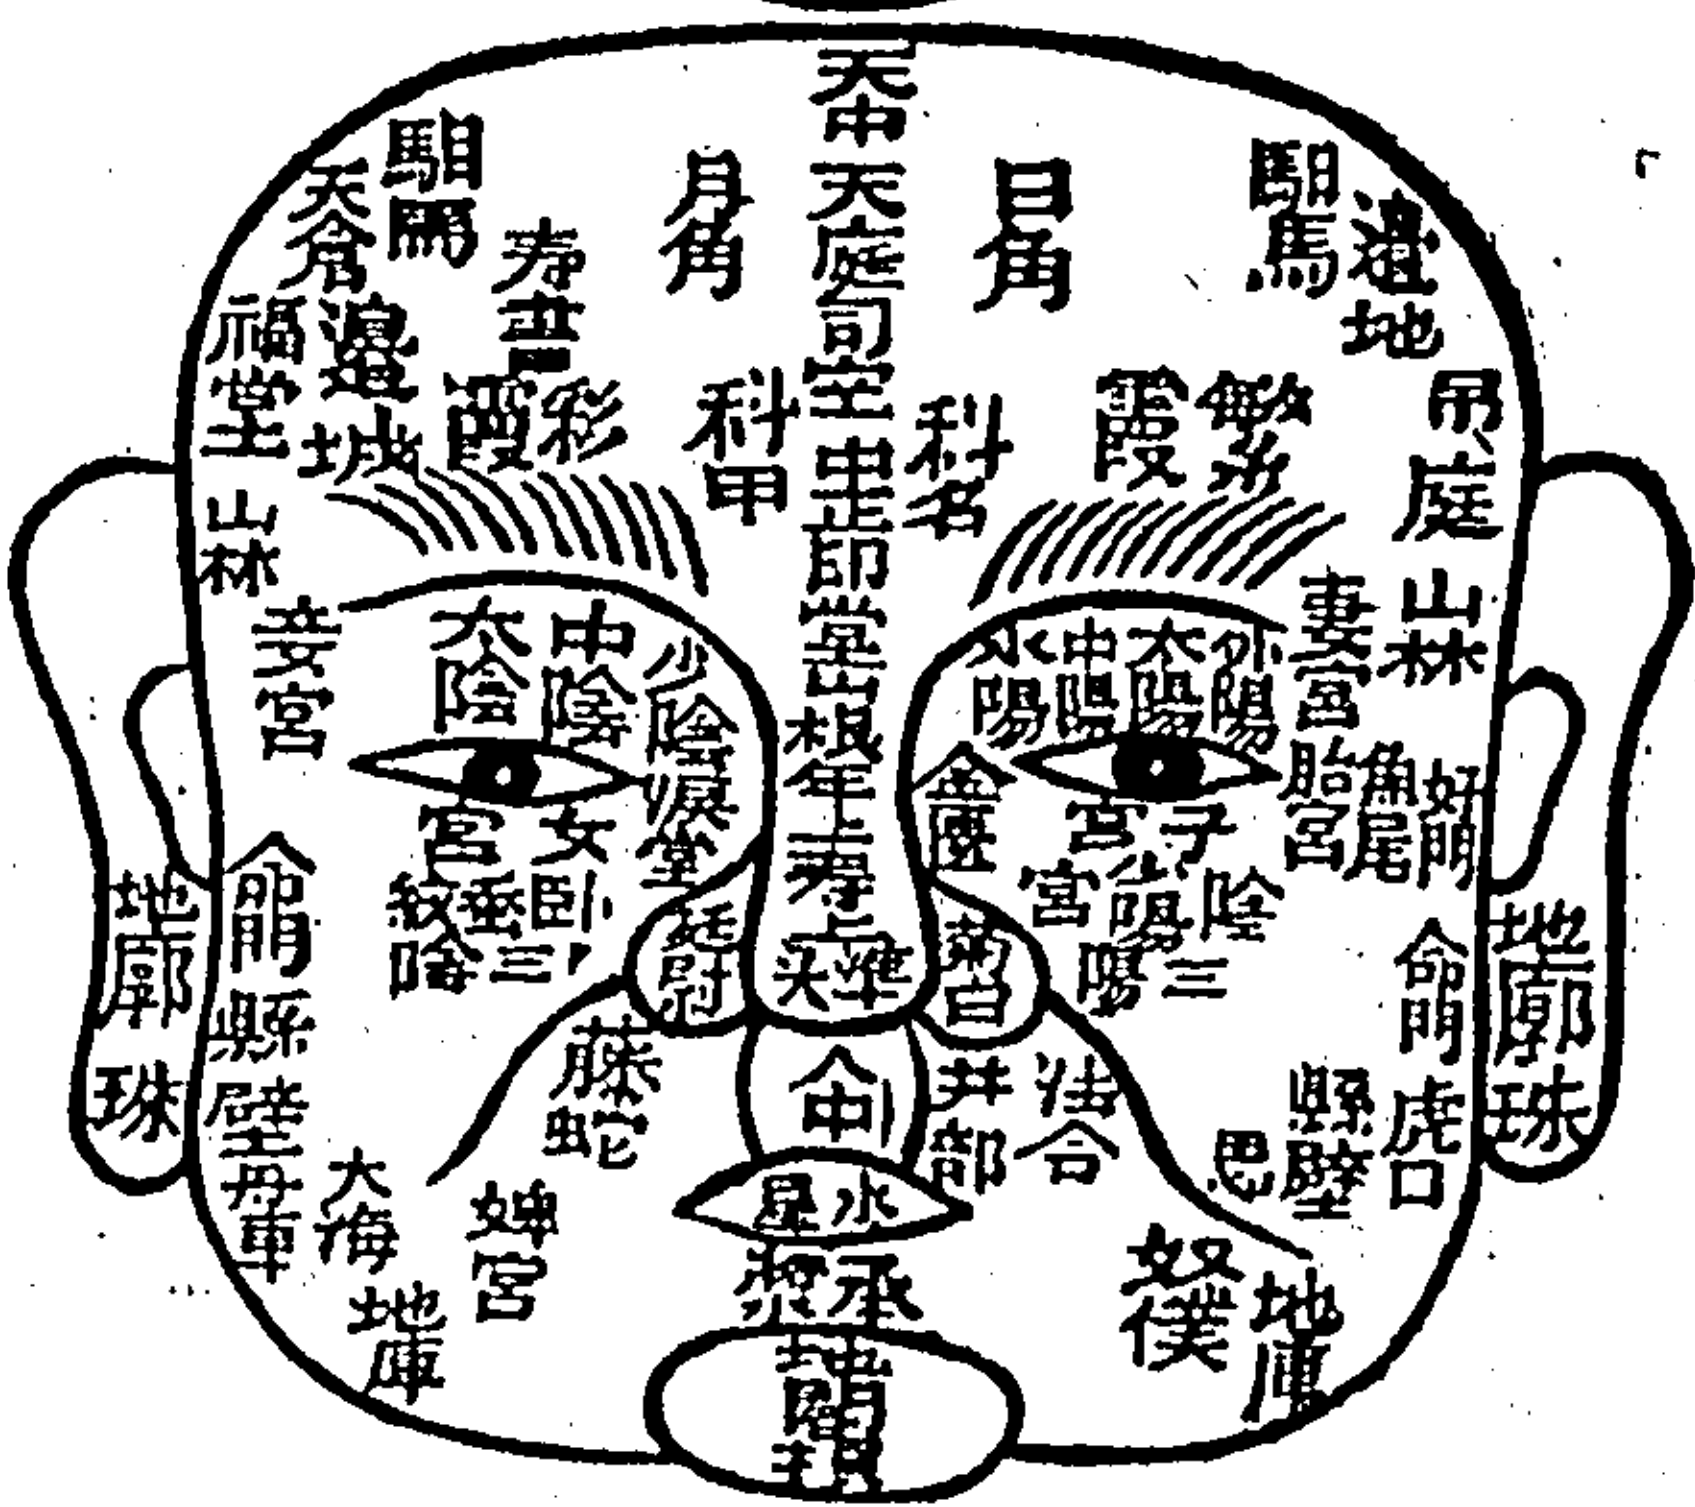

FEW subjects have been of more general interest than that of the study of the human countenance. Men of all ages and countries have been so thoroughly intrigued with the possibility of describing the mental character of an individual through what is expressed in his features that they have seen fit to elaborate rules; and hence, the science of physiognomy was born. The greatest exponent of the system of character reading as it is known in the West has been, of course, the 18th Century Swiss, Herr Johann Kaspar Lavater, who maintained that it was "possible and easy to read the disposition of any one from an attentive perusal of the countenance, and that the powers and faculties of the mind have representative signs in the solid marks of the face." Even although his theory appears unusually complete, it was surpassed centuries before his time by the Chinese, who have condensed their fundamental ideas into a system of such perfection that for minutiae and detail eclipse en masse all the notions of Western philosophers.

The Chinese, for instance, have gone so far as to assert that "the physical and moral natures are practically continuous; for a person who has some bodily defect, has presumptively a corresponding moral defect, and the one is the advertisement of the other." Many of these physiognomic data have passed parents. In short, the possibility as for example: Nuan ts'e san pat ching, pei me yi pat-tuen—"If the eyes squint the heart is not correct; if the nose is crooked the intentions are not upright." Furthermore, certain aspects of the features are considered as indubitable signs of one's future destiny. For instance, that mei-sai yat-sai k'ang—"If the mouth is wide and the lips are thin, the person will be a beggar." On the other hand, they affirm: Yi-hau pat-jung chi, pat-sap pat-nang-sai—"If the line, it signifies a kingly old age, enough for a finger, though one be eighty years old, yet one will not die."

Other ideas which have been advanced by the Chinese through their study of physiognomy are those which seem to us, to be almost unaccountable, but, nevertheless, are firmly believed by the masses of the people. Such, for example, is the tenet that large ears are a token of good fortune. Another curious notion which is part and parcel of the Chinese physiognomist's lore is sex, it will be absolutely worthless van-chung, or little channel in the middle of the upper lip which is scientifically referred to as the labial raphe. It is said that if this groove happens to be long, then the owner is bound to be long-lived, and more-over, his longevity is directly in ratio to its length (sic).

So general is the appeal of physiognomy amongst the Chinese that even the common people possess a smattering. The Chinese almanac as well as the vernacular press have their quota of charts and dogmatic can Britain consider co-operation. The Times must know this.

It is fairly obvious that the Japanese people appreciate the British position; otherwise the Hochi Shimbun, a very influential daily, would not try to shirk the main issues of Anglo-Japanese misunderstanding, and endeavour to place the blame for the deterioration of the relations of these two competitive powers upon Britain, which the newspaper accuses of assisting China to resist Japan and of adopting a policy of trickery in dealings with Tokyo. In effect, the Hochi Shimbun says that Japan should not treat with Britain in any of the issues raised between London and Tokyo as long as Great Britain pursues her present tactics in the Far East. In other words, the newspaper would have Britain abandon her pledges and her loyalties in return for a promise of consideration for the British claims with respect to her rights and interests in China. It would have a pistol to the head of the British Government to discourage contemplated financial aid to China. Japan, it would seem, has little interest in maintaining amicable relations. Here is a realist policy.

MR. PEPYS in HONGKONG

11th. August.—Up very betimes being now restored in my health, and after breaking my fast to my office, considering, as I goe, how I may persuade my cook by other means than violence to boil my eggs lightly. But I doubt of any success in the matter. At one of the clock to Mr. Tom's where I doe meet a many ladies and much talk. But Lord! how Mr. Tom laughs to see mee drink a glass of tomato juice instead of the Amontillado which I did aforetime affect. Yet it comes into my mind that in some part he hath less to laugh upon than hee yet realizes. Yet however it may be, I doe purpose steadfastly to keep to my regimen. At my papers until a half after six of the clock and so to the Clubbe where Creed tells mee hee hath it on good authority that France's men, who did give out they had all but won, have taken a sad reverse and so it is the reply on the withdrawal of volunteers is so de-laid. But, says Mr. Poy, it seems manifest that it is Signor Mussolini's wisest policy so to order matters that he shall bring it to pass that Franco shall not be able to whip a cat in Spain but he means to be at the tail of it. And I doe confess that his adroitness in politics doth lead me to think accordingly, though Creed doth murmur somewhat of four flushing which I did not understand. 12th.—Reading in the newes sheets this day I doe learn that there has been an A.R.P. exhibition and I am sadde at heart I visited it not, as, had I come thither, I might at least have seen a gas mask, which seems more than I am like to doe in an ordinary way, let alone to purchase one. Newes comes there is a truce up'n the frontier in Manchukuo and many seem to doubt if it will be kept. But I am minded that the Japanese are mighty glad to bee out as cheep as they are, and the Soviets not minded to do further. So save by talk I doe believe the truce will not bee broken. But I doubt not that this both shown might, clear by what methods the Asian races are most impressed. This day I do bowl in the Clubbe alleys but I have not yet fully recovered my strength. I home very tired and dined with the Children and so to bed.

13th.—Up betimes and to my office and later to the Clubbe where it seems there are fewer than usual. Took my nunchcon at home and at a quarter to five I doe set out for Deep Water Bay by way of the goat track, Coombe Road, Black's Links and the poney road, which is as I believe a mile longer than the path straight down the hill to the second green, but I was in the fear of the driving Golf balls at the first two holes. Coming over Black's Links I did pass above a large site which is left derelict and I doe believe it to bee the one that was aforetime destined for the War Memorial and later for the Naval Hospital. But Lord! what a waste of money it all is. Came to the Golf Club at the Bay in one and a half hours, at which I am pleased for I have walked but little these many months, and there did enjoy my shower and dry raiment mightily, and so after a cup of hippocrass, and later one glass of strong waters, home by motor coach. Dined at home, reading after a little in my new history of the United States, and so to bed.

14th (Lord's Day).—In my garden where the Achimenes makes a mighty good show in the crannies of the wall. Weeded the tubs where are the two Ptilosterns, which Mistress Peggy did give mee, but Lord! I know not when they doe flower, so give them a handful of Organo Golfe balls at the first two holes. Presently come Mr. Claude and his Lady, but recently returned to the Colony and we doe sit beneath the trees and drink a glass or two, tho' I in my regimen may take tomato juice alone, of which I doe now become a connoisseur. At six of the clock to High West where I doe take a glass with Mr. F. Franklin after his dogge, which did sleep through his burglary, had nigh done herself a mischief barking at mee. Walked (Continued on Page 3)

And then — the climax indeed; he shows the pictures he himself has taken, lucky chap, with the Zeiss Ikon CONTAX II, and he knows exactly why. Its outstanding qualities are: focal plane metal shutter speeded to 1/1250th sec., uniting of finder and distance meter to produce the finder-meter, incorporated automatic release, detachable back and 15 interchangeable Zeiss lenses with bayonet mount. ## Of Course You Know, But Are You Sure?

There has been some heavy scoring in the past week or two, which shows that either the questions are easier or we are getting to know more things. Perhaps it's a little bit of both—although naturally questions which are ridiculously easy for some people are impossible for others. That must always be.

However, there may be one or two questions that will trick you to-day. Pencil ready? Well—to work! In case you don't know how to score, take two points for each correct answer and aim at getting a 50 total. You can pass with 30, and 40 or more is very good.

1.—Asbestos—that stuff they make fireproof mats out of—I was interested to know—is it:
Sea weed; mineral; cloth; vegetable; root; timber.

2.—Supposing the Dlonnes (Mr. and Mrs.) had had eight instead of the mere five, they (the children) would be referred to as, not quintuplets, but—
Octaves; octodermis; octahedrons; octagons; octuplets; octomans.

3.—I reckon—and I hope I'm right—the plural of one of these words is wrong:
Trout-trout; ox-oxen; mouse-mice; stimulus-stimuli; crisis-crises.

4.—I didn't know until they were pointed out to me on a map of the world the other day that the Falkland Islands were off the coast of—Ireland; Australia; Canada; Scotland; South America.

5.—I expect just about everybody has read Rudyard Kipling's famous school story called—
The Master of the Shell; Tom Brown's Schooldays; The Oppidan; Scissors; Stalky & Co.; The Hill.

6.—When Murgatroyd was sailing his old windjammer in the Atlantic, he tells me frequently his ship was caught in the Horse Latitudes, which are—
Dangerously rough regions; regions of calm; regions of treacherous currents; rocky shoals.

7.—It's none of my business of course—but I really think you ought to know that a dyne is—
A unit of force; an American coin; a drug; a piece of furniture (a dyne-room table).

8.—Join the military and learn that a pace, judged by military standards, is—
Two feet; three feet; 18 inches; 30 inches; a yard and a half.

9.—You might know all about the gold standard without knowing that the number of parts of gold in standard gold is—
15; 18; 20; 22; 24; 25.

10.—When in Rome do as Rome does—so just imagine you were in Rome in the old days and tell us that numerals MDCCC stand for—1938; 1500; 1700; 1800; 250 B.C.

11.—If you were one of those bright young people who managed to graduate from the infants' school into, say, first standard, you'll know in a trice that "the first King of the English" was—
Egbert; Ethelwulf; Edward the Confessor; Alfred the Great; Canute.

12.—As a point of social etiquette it would be proper to address Prime Minister J. A. Lyons's wife as—
Mrs. Prime Minister Lyons; Madam Lyons; Lady Lyons; Dame Enid Lyons.

13.—If you can remember who the Duke of Kent married, you will know that the Duke's father-in-law was a—
Grand Duke of Greece; Prince of Holland; King of Belgium; Prince of Greece; Duke of Albania.

14.—In a full-size Rugby football field the maximum length and width is about—50 yards; 60; 65; 75; 90; 100; 110; 125; 250.

15.—When people say a man's tastes are Catholic, they mean his tastes are—
Orthodox; religious; narrow; old-fashioned; liberal.

16.—When you take home a reputed quart bottle of wine, I'll have you know you are taking home about—
Two pints; three pints; four pints; three-quarters of a gallon; one-sixth of a gallon; headache.

17.—If I've got a carpet 8ft. by 12ft. and you've got one that's only 4ft. by 6ft. my carpet is—
Six times bigger than yours; four times bigger; twice as big; much better anyway.

18.—Have a good look at the word today before you decide it means a—
Servile person; beverage; mushroom-like fungus; bird.

19.—If you are ever tempted to use the word harbinger, make sure first that you know it means—
Springtime; a flower; a gem; a sign; a herald.

20.—You know that old metric system they used to playue us with at school—well, the prefix deca (or deca) stands for—
One hundredth; one tenth; one thousandth; one hundred; ten.

21.—Naturally you know without my having to tell you that the number of degrees in a quadrant is—
30; 60; 45; 75; 90; 180; 360.

22.—One of these days it might be more or less essential for you to use the word addit, whereupon you will pronounce it—a-DIKT; ADD-ikt; a-DITE.

23.—This is easy. How do you divide seven full bottles, seven half-full bottles and seven empty bottles among three people so that each receives the same quantity of liquor and the same number of bottles?
24.—Now that you've practically finished this week's test you can have a spell—ferret out the words spell incorrectly—
Dissent; dissonant; discuss; dissymmetry; dissimulate.

25.—A man who sings in the highest pitched male voice would be billed on a concert programme as—
A baritone; a bass; a tenor; a contralto; an alto; a crooner.

A Lay Sermon

By HUGH REDWOOD

IF the fear of the Lord is the beginning of wisdom, then its lack must be the beginning of folly. A world wise in its own conceits, permitted by God, through the march of its "science," to advance towards His eternal truths, perverts its knowledge, The promotion of a vancement, fools, and says in its

Proverbs, iii, 35. heart "there is no God."

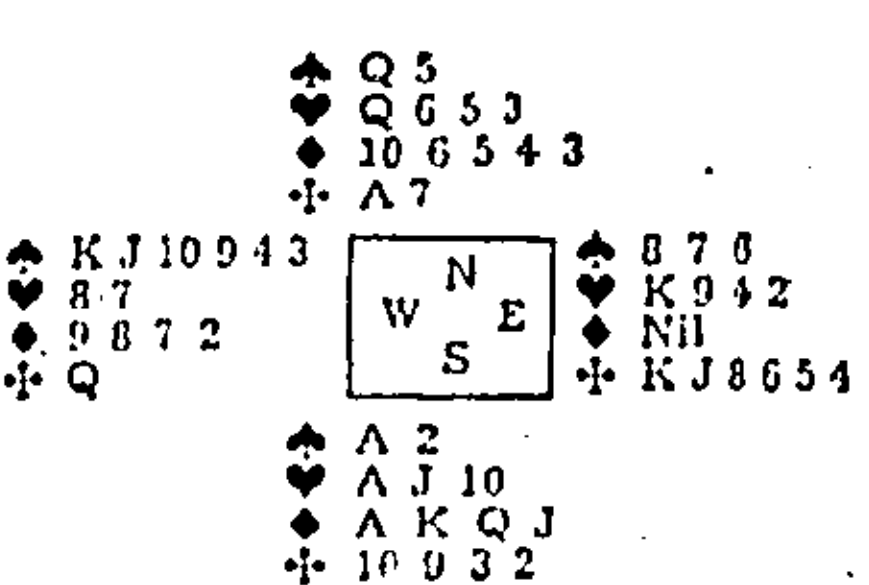

That way madness lies. It is pretty obvious to-day that a world goes mad which loses the fear of the Lord.

Where no supreme authority is recognised, there can be no stability. It is then that men usurp Divine prerogatives; it is then that we see, in the holy place, the abomination of desolation; it is then that the earth, caught in the strife of its nations, reels to and fro like a drunkard.

And it is then that the pure in heart see God. They see the signs for which they have waited, the signs of their approaching redemption. They see the inevitable retribution of fools, a "promotion" which holds the scoffers aloft in his shame. But God, whose grace has been theirs in their lowliness, stands willing to crown their simple wisdom with glory.

BRIDGE PROBLEM

No. 72

There are no trumps. West leads a small diamond and North-South have to win eleven of the thirteen tricks.

Solutions by Wednesday to Bridge Problem, Hongkong "Telegraph."

SOLUTION OF PROBLEM No. 71
South leads a small club which North wins with Queen. North returns a small heart (trumps) which South wins. South leads small club which North ruffs and wins with ace and king of trumps, on which South throws his two diamonds. North leads diamond three which West is allowed to win with his jack, South discarding a spade. West wins also with spade queen and must lead a second spade for South to win. South wins last trick with king of clubs.

If, at trick six, East wins the diamond trick with the ace, South throws the king of Clubs instead of the small spade. East, after winning also with club ten, has to lead up from 9 5 of diamonds to North's 10 6.

Burglary At Shrivellittle

Manor INSPECTOR PLAYFAIR

EPISODE 74

SERGEANT DUMBELL, of the C.I.D., engaged in the task of "failing" Albert Hoddesty, Jewel thief, flattered himself that he had made a good job of his disguise. Instead of the blue serge suit and bowler in which he usually made his public appearances he wore a brown suit, imitation suede shoes, a cheap rain-coat and a hat of the genus Homburg but of no clearly defined species. He carried a shabby attache case.

"Think yourself into a part and stick to it," had been Joshua Playfair's injunction. Dumbell had "thought himself" into the part of a turf accountant's clerk. There was, perhaps, no great necessity for this imposture, since it was unlikely that he would be called upon to explain himself to anyone.

But one ought to be prepared for anything. As he followed Albert Hoddesty to Euston, one sultry evening in July, he reminded himself, at frequent intervals, that, for the time being, he was not J. H. Dumbell, but William Smith, clerk to "your old pal," Charlie Baker.

It was essential that he should not lose sight of Hoddesty. At the back of this misquarade of Dumbell's—as it had often been the case—lay "information received." A "mark" of the name of Jewson, purveyor of a good deal of subterranean intelligence, had, the day before, been cloistered with Playfair. He had found out (so he averred) that Hoddesty—a well-known figure at the Yard—was a participant in a projected "job" somewhere in the neighbourhood of Tiventy. More precise information Jewson was unable to give. He was pretty sure, however, that Hoddesty was appearing in person, and that he was proceeding to his destination by train. Dumbell was instructed to shadow him. At Tiventy Station a car would be at Dumbell's disposal, driven by a constable in plain clothes; he would take whatever steps he thought best to shadow Hoddesty and to catch him, if possible, red-handed. He had eluded arrest for too long.

Jewson's information proved to be perfectly accurate. Dumbell had picked up his trail about five o'clock that afternoon, had followed him to Euston, had heard him ask for a return ticket to Tiventy. He bought a similar ticket himself, followed Hoddesty to the train, and climbed into an adjoining compartment. He noticed with a thrill that Hoddesty was like Dumbell himself, partially disguised. His acquaintances would probably have had difficulty in spotting him had they seen him on the train.

Tiventy is about two hours' run from Euston, and there is only one stop en route, at Swanby. It did not surprise Dumbell that Hoddesty should elect to have dinner on the train. When he saw the jewel-thief pass along the corridor in response to the invitation: "Seats for the first dinner," Dumbell got up and followed him. He was hungry, and he saw no valid reason why "William Smith" should not dine too.

And now occurred something which Dumbell had not reckoned upon. When he reached the "diner," there was only one vacant seat. It faced the seat occupied by Hoddesty. As the Sergeant paused—a little taken aback by this development—Hoddesty half rose and courteously removed from the seat opposite his newspaper and hat. Dumbell had no option but to take the vacant chair. "Am I recognised?" he asked himself, as, politely thanking Hoddesty, he sat down. "Have I been too officious and spoilt Playfair's carefully-laid plan?" But there was no flicker of recognition in Hoddesty's narrowly-set eyes; "After all," thought Dumbell, "why should he know me for what I am? We've never, so far as I know, come in contact."

Thinking himself, as hard as he could, into the part of William Smith, and betraying (he hoped) no suspicion and no embarrassment, Dumbell consumed his dinner. The two men dropped into a desultory conversation; the train service was good, wasn't it?—the dinner was fairish—beer wasn't what it used to be. Dumbell hinted, when the other man mentioned racing, that he was due the following day at Mellington. They discussed the prospects for the big race, the Mellington Gold Vase.

"Have a cigarette?" said Dumbell when coffee was served. The train was slowing down for Swanby; "I'd better" (thought the detective) "keep him here." He handed a packet of gaspers.

"Thanks," Hoddesty selected a cigarette; lit Dumbell's and his own. He put a pound note on the table. "Pay my bill, old chap, will you, if the attendant comes along. I want to get some papers from my compartment."

That was the last Dumbell saw of him.

It was a very crestfallen Sergeant who reported at the Yard the following day. Shrivellittle Manor, half-way between Swanby and Tiventy, had been burgled in the night. The thief or thieves had left in trace of their presence; £18,000 worth of jewels had disappeared. "That business with the £1 note tricked me," explained Dumbell, forlornly, to his superior. "Everything seemed so open and above-board—it didn't occur to me, just at the moment, that he was doing a bolt at Swanby after all."

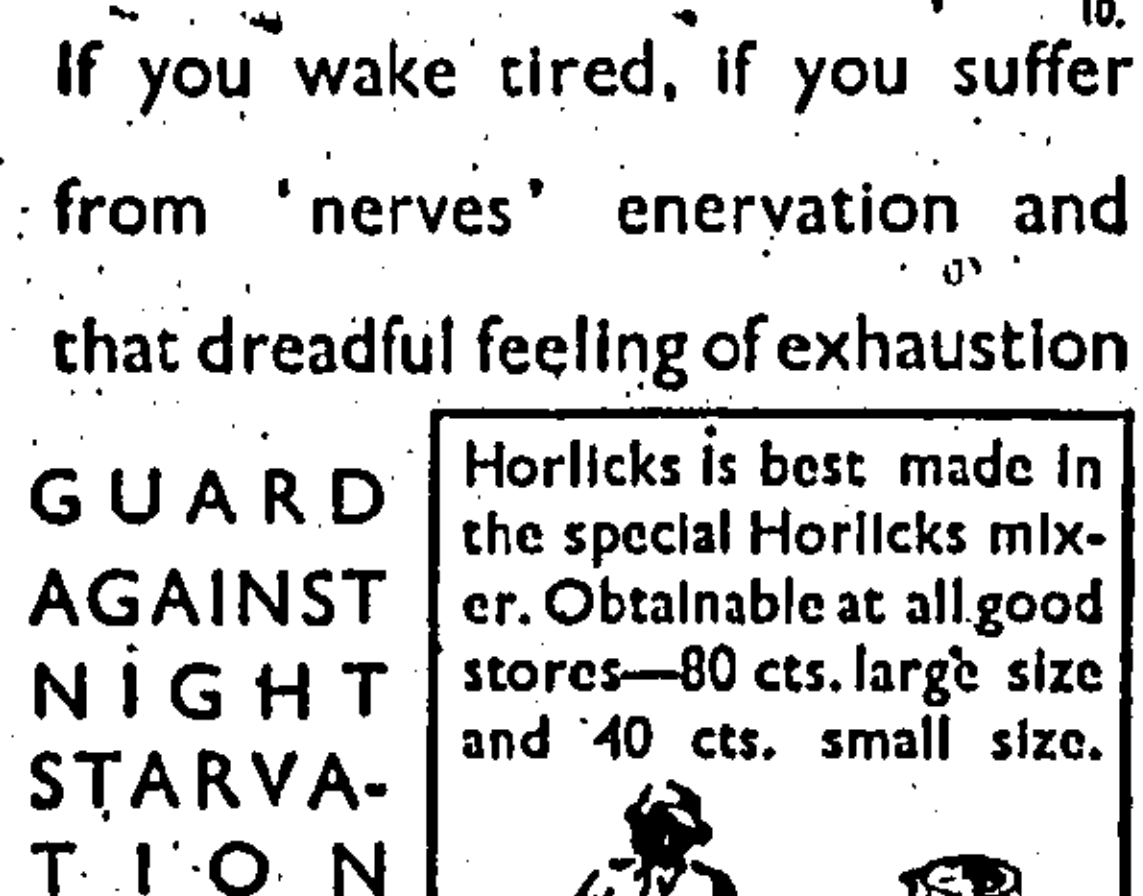

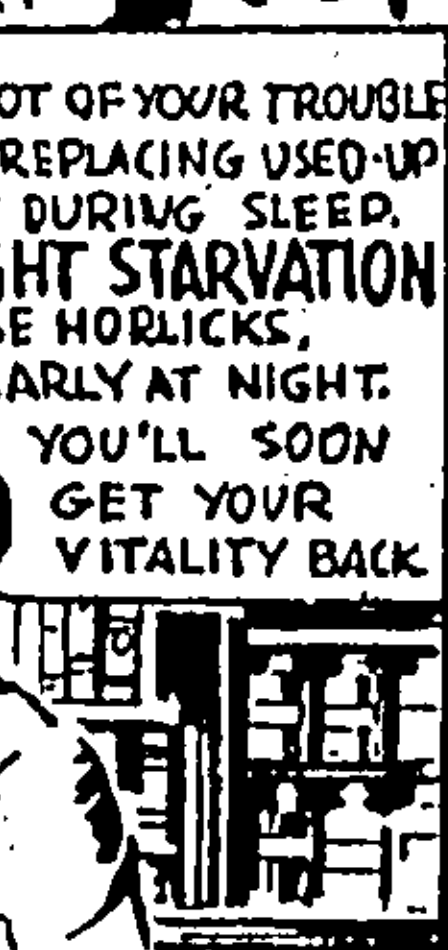

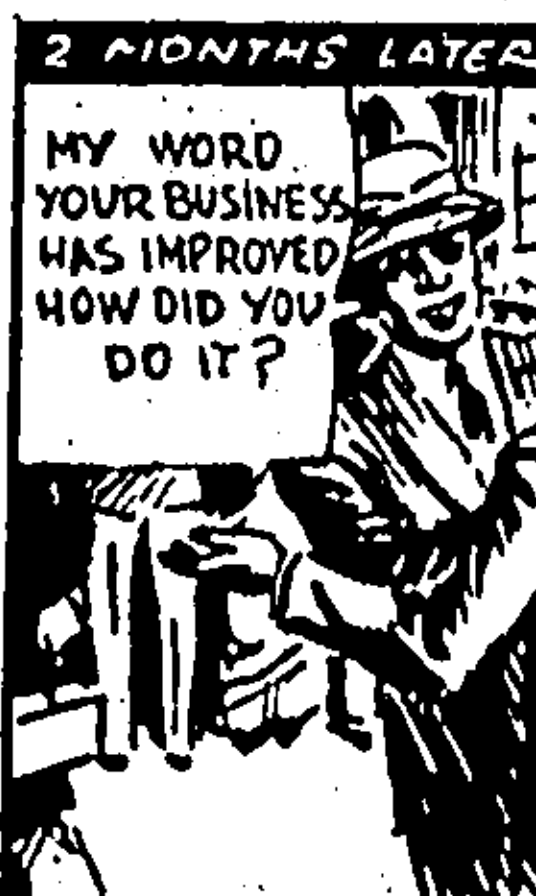

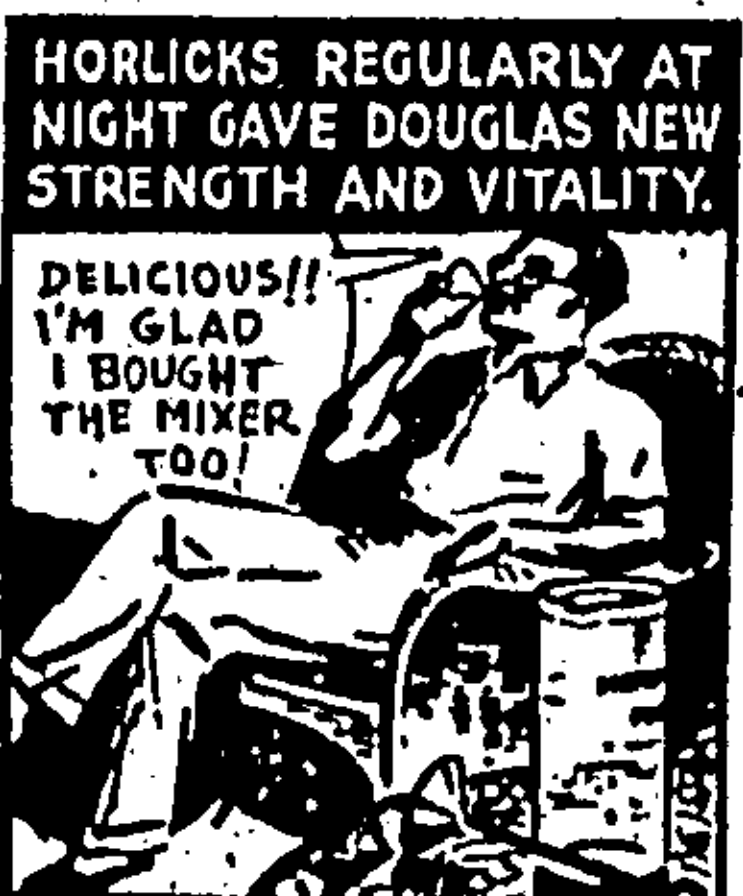

"Cheer up," answered Playfair. "I daresay we'll snaffle him yet."

Hoddesty, interrogated that afternoon, produced—as usual—a seemingly cast-iron alibi. Three of his acquaintances were prepared to swear that he had not left town the night before. Confronted with Dumbell, he proclaimed with a supercilious stare, that he had never set eyes on him before. And so effective had been Hoddesty's disguise that none of the attendants on the train was ready to give evidence that he had travelled by it.

In the circumstances, Playfair was distinctly lucky to secure Hoddesty's conviction. This, however, was not difficult—once he had broken the jewel-thief's alibi. "And for that, my dear Dumbell," he said, reviewing the case some weeks later, "we have, after all, to thank you. Your bookmaking pal, William Smith, seems to have underrated his own prowess. He was on a winner after all."

How was Hoddesty's alibi broken? (Solution on Page Three)

Marriage Denied

Owing to their hermit-like existence they have not the same chance of meeting people and making love as ordinary folks. True, they often get offers of marriage from various types of admirers, but if they accept an offer it is a shot in the dark as they have no chance of getting to know each other properly.

Most of the world's famous freaks remained single, such as: Ambrose Seurat, The Living Skeleton, Tiny Tim; Chang the giant, and others. The principal difficulty is that very few people care for a life of continuous travelling, which would be their lot if they married a freak.

It is a strange fact that the marriages of freaks seldom turn out happily. The physical disabilities foredoom the marriage from the beginning. The unfortunate person whom nature in one of her capricious moods has caused to be deformed cannot be an ideal mate for a normal human being. I have known a freak to marry another similarly afflicted.

A Remarkable Dwarf

A noteworthy exception to the rule of unhappy marriages was Count Boruwlaski the famous Polish dwarf. He was only thirty-six inches in height, and died just a century ago.

The Count was adopted by Countess Hunska at the age of ten, and travelled the Courts of Europe with her for thirty years, and became the pampered pet of Royalty. His love affairs were notorious and forced his patroness to flee from one city to another with him. In Paris he fell in love with an actress and used to slip out at night to visit her. He finally fell in love at forty with Isoline Barnouin, a maid in the employ of the Countess. This led to the breaking up of the friendship between the Countess and himself. The Count married Isoline. They had two daughters. He turned over a new leaf, and they were a very happy couple.

Youthful CHARM

Hair styles of today make careful washing a necessity. Ordinary soaps should be avoided. The free alkali they contain soon dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle and ruins it under the frequent shampoos necessary to keep the hair beautiful.

Discriminating women everywhere use Mulsified because it is gentle, the scalp and greasiness oils keep the scalp well nourished. Mulsified leaves the hair soft and easy to manage. It preserves the natural wave and colour—makes it sparkle with new life, gloss and lustre.

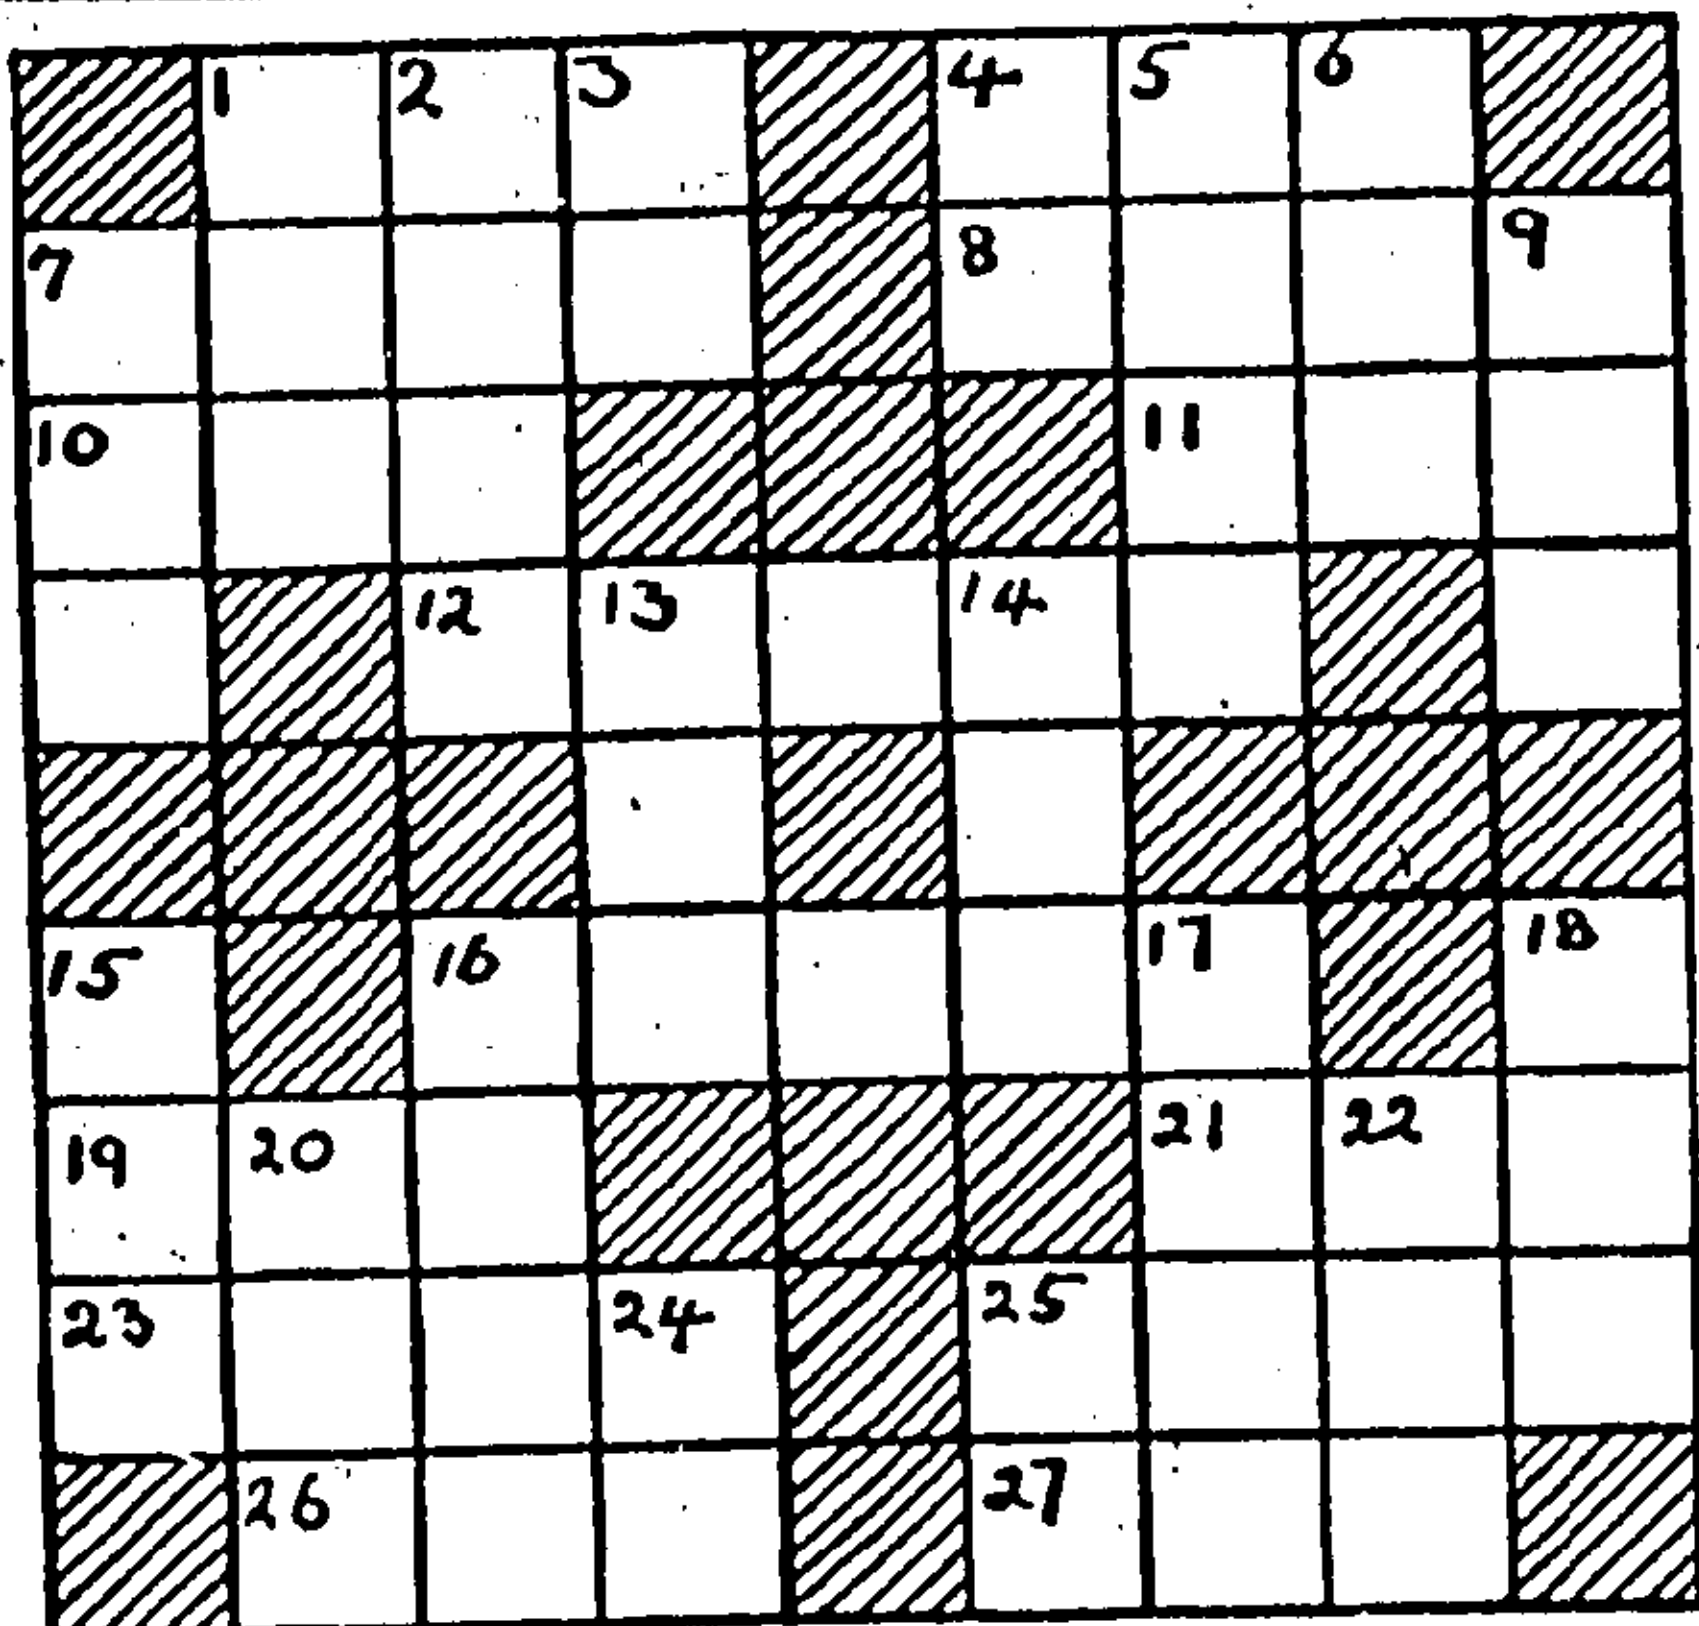

Two or three teaspoonfuls gives an abundance of rich, creamy lather—cleanses thoroughly—completely preserves the hair from dirt, dust and dandruff.

Don't envy the woman with beautiful hair. Make it yours by using Mulsified.

Playfair, having heard Dumbell's story, at once examined the latter's cigarette package for fingerprints. By great good luck he thus procured unchallengeable evidence that Hoddesty had been on the train.

At the Cinema—with P. L. Mannoek RAKE-OFF, £9,000,000 A Year

HOLLYWOOD interests are far friendlier to the British studio than they used to be. When the Government first thought of protecting home-made films from crushing competition, Carl Laemmle, the veteran producer, told us bluntly that he was not going to lose any of his foreign market without a struggle.

In fact, there was considerable resentment that any country except the U.S.A. should dare to express itself nationally on the screen, as it did in literature and art.

All that is changed. Recently the popular United States Ambassador, Mr. Joseph P. Kennedy, whom I first met when he was a film chief himself, made one of the few statesmanlike speeches ever heard at a cinema function.

SATD Mr. Kennedy: "The British industry should receive all the encouragement possible. The American industry takes a lot of money out of the country and should do the best that could be done for the industry here."

He also declared what few people realize—that every Hollywood company remains solvent because of the £9,000,000 or so paid to it annually by the British public.

"It would be terrible if anything happened to the British industry that they could trace in the slightest degree to lack of co-operation on the part of Americans."

THIS common-sense view is refreshing as well as logical. Already it is being expressed in a practical way. Hollywood is to-day spending some £1,000,000 a year on actually making British films. This will certainly not diminish.

Hollywood can make films more cheaply on this side. The huge United Artists combine has just decided to make all its Technicolor subjects even short ones, in England.

General Releases

AFTER a long illness, W. C. Fields returns to regale us with his bluster and muckings in The Big Broadcast of 1938, a very untidy but on the whole satisfying piece of nonsense.

Mr. Fields is still a figure of genuine fun as he flies from golf course to a liner, muddies up an Atlantic race and becomes a genial nuisance.

A ship's concert includes an operatic snuff by Kirsten Flagstad, a song of nothing; and Ben Blue, Martha Raye, Grace Bradley and Dorothy Lamour are continually on hand.

More elementary humour, but put over with some originality of situation, is I See Ice, in which George Formby is very, very busy and good in songs and slapstick at the rink.

My criminal side has often fancied hiding loot and collecting it after serving my sentence. The Wrong Road, however, has finally decided me against it.

Richard Cromwell and Helen Mack find it is simply asking for trouble. Lionel Atwill plays a kindly detective.

Fellow-lodgers who wed to save rent always have my sympathy, and James Dunn and Whitney Bourne, in Living on Love, are no exceptions. A bright picture, this, with good comedy parts.

STAR OF THE WEEK

VIRGINIA BRUCE was described by Ziegfeld as the most beautiful natural blonde in America. She left his chorus to marry John Gilbert; has one daughter, Susan Ann.

Original name Briggs; now 27, wife of director J. Walter Rubin. Small film parts until "Society Doctor," "Escapade," "Murder Man," recently "Bad Man of Brimstone"; currently in "Yellow Jack," just finished "Woman Against Woman" with Herbert Marshall.

LATEST FILMS

Yellow Jack

STARS: Robert Montgomery, Virginia Bruce. Medical melodrama.

VILLAIN of this story is half-an-inch long and looks very sinister in close-ups. He is the mosquito that carries germs of yellow fever and swells the death-roll in Cuba round about 1897.

Inspired by fact, the tale is one of heroism in the ranks of Uncle Sam's Army Medical Corps.

While the bands play "Good-bye Dolly Gray," the perplexed doctors, headed by Lewis Stone, fight the scourge, and Robert Montgomery twice volunteers for experimental infection.

Much of the narrative consists of moist, lolling soldiers in isolation sheds, but we are spared harrowing scenes, and Mr. Montgomery, with a creditable Irish brogue, is comely and assured.

Virginia Bruce has not an arduous role as a pretty nurse. A sincerely produced record of unending heroism, with excellent acting from everybody and relief by Buddy Ebsen, Andy Devine and Charles Coburn.

The Thirteen

STARS: All-Russian. Military melodrama.

SOVIET productions to-day are often free from that fanatical propaganda of yore. This is a little epic in its way, a sort of "Lost Patrol."

Twelve soldiers and an officer's wife hold out against a murderous Tartar brigand horde in the Turkestan desert, until the relief party finds only one left.

It is done with stark realism and there is sheer beauty in the wonderful shots of sand formations under the wind.

No Parking

STAR: Gordon Harker. Crook comedy.

LACONIC and bland by turns, Gordon Harker plays Gordon Harker again with immense success.

As a down-and-out opener of card-sheds he gets mistaken for an eminent crook by rival gangs of thieves.

In smart clothes he carries things off and only jibs when asked to murder a rich man at a country house.

There is some amusing tension over a letter to be intercepted, and good work from Leslie Perrins, Frank Stanmore, Charles Carson and attractive Irene Ware.

But the final surprise deflates the plot's plausibility with regrettable suddenness.

Revels

THERE must be still plenty of people who never saw two of the best British products ever made, "The Private Life of Henry VIII" and H. G. Wells' "Things to Come."

A little judicious trimming has improved them both.

As for the four-year-old "Design for Living," I still stoutly maintain that it has the best dialogue ever done for the screen.

Only a few words of the original Noel Coward remain; Ben Hecht and Charlie MacArthur rewrote the whole thing. Gary Cooper, Fredric March, and Miriam Hopkins are brilliant, and the faintly immoral climax will readily be forgiven by everybody.

"Marry In—"

New York.

"Marry in haste and repent at leisure" will not apply to the State of New York in future.

The blood test law, signed by Governor Lehman in April, and similar to that operating in eight other States, comes into force. It provides that no person can obtain a marriage licence without producing a medical certificate proving that he or she is free from a certain disease.

As a result, in future runaway marriages in up-State towns will be impossible.

Throughout the State men and women have been flocking to the marriage bureaux seeking permission to marry before the test is enforced. Saturdays have been the busiest days, and at Brooklyn one Saturday there was a 300 per cent. increase in applications compared with a year ago.

HARK TO THE HURRICANE

NINE years ago Richard Hughes gave us that unforgettable story of a party of children who spent six delirious months as the guests of a band of pirates, A High Wind in Jamaica.

The wind is higher still in his new novel, In Hazard (Chatto and Windus, 7s. 6d.). A November hurricane howls through the tale at two hundred miles an hour, blowing the tunnel clean out of the canal at Archimedes and terrifying her small crew.

On the second day the hatches go, and the mate, Buxton, is sent to secure them.

"Clinging to a doorway, he looked out. . . . Yes, he was actually possible to see the gaps in the air through which a man might insinuate his body, working his way towards the open hatch! In a minute or two he was there, crouched under the lee of the coaming, and as each volume of spray went below he winced as if it fell on his own nerves. . . ."

He was protected from the wind—but the next sea which broke over the rail would carry him away with it, for it would pour down this sloping deck like Niagara. There could be no hope of holding on.

Even if he tied himself with a rope, the sea would batter him against the iron like an egg. And it might come any minute.

"The hatches had gone overboard, but the tarpaulin, curiously, had not. It was pressed on the deck in a heap. Just as Buxton turned to creep away it leapt up like a black wall. It hit him and knocked him down and covered him, flattening him to the deck under its stiff weight."

Then the sea came. It burst over the rail. How many tons, it roared down the deck, a fathom deep. Its weight nearly crushed Buxton under the tarpaulin—the tarred canvas suddenly fitting his body like a mould. Then away he leaped, and the other rail, and the ship staggered and rose. "Buxton, under the tarpaulin, was not only saved alive: he was almost dry."

"He crawled out, crushed and stupid, carelessly. The wind took him like gravity and flung him to the centre-castle, where he crashed into the door from which he had started."

A long quotation. But only so could I give you the amazing sense of actuality that distinguishes this book. As you read, you are there with Buxton, clinging to that hideously heaving drift.

And, just as the dog-tired, desperate crew has moments of sleepwalking at the height of the storm, Mr. Hughes takes time out now and then to discuss barometers and the Beaufort Scale and fear and religion and Chinese Communism and a score of other things. Which only makes that wind howl louder when you get back into it.

"The days of Conrad's Typhoon are past; the days when hurricanes pounced on shipping as unexpectedly as a cat on mice. For one thing, the mice know more now than they used to know of the cat's anatomy, of the rules which govern its motion—and, in addition to that, the cat has been belled."

No doubt, yet this hurricane nearly shook the ship to pieces before it let her go. I finish In Hazard with several hours of the cat's anatomy, of the rules which govern its motion—and, in addition to that, the cat has been belled."

Manslaughter Of Peer's Nephew: P. C. Charged

STORY OF BLOWS AFTER A VILLAGE DANCE

Blows exchanged between a peer's nephew and a police constable after a dance were referred to at an inquest in York on Gilbert Edward Frederick Douty, 27-year-old nephew of tobacco millionaire Lord Dufferin, chairman of the Imperial Tobacco Company.

The jury returned a verdict of Manslaughter, and the 25-year-old constable, Stewart Affleck Reid, of Liverpool, was committed for trial by the coroner.

U.S. SHOULD COUNTER LATEST SPY ACTIVITIES

United Press Staff Correspondent
(Copyright, 1938, by United Press)

New York, June. Representative Emanuel Celler, veteran Democratic Congressman from New York City, has proposed in an exclusive interview with the United Press that the United States set up a counter-espionage organization to combat activities of alleged foreign spies in this country.

"We have our direct spy bureau," he said, "but its activities are positive. There should be a separate and distinct bureau for the purpose of running down Nazi and Communist spies and scotching the evil done by them. I contemplate introducing specific measures in the next Congress in this regard."

Celler, ranking member of the House Committee on the Judiciary, has served continuously in Congress for 16 years. In addition to the establishment of counter-espionage, he will propose additional appropriations for army and navy intelligence departments, strengthening of naturalization laws, strict regulation of foreign steamship lines using United States ports and an investigation into the activities of all German organizations in this country, including the Embassy at Washington and German consulates all over the country.

"I shall stress most forcefully the need for more protective measures against the machinations and trickery of German spies who would pry into our military and naval secrets," he said. "The excellent work of United States Attorney Lamar Hardy and of the Federal Bureau of Investigation was creditable in unearthing at least 18 of these culprits, most of whom unfortunately escaped from the country."

"But there must be many more equally guilty—scores of other wretches of German origin still at large. It shall be my studied purpose to round up all these criminals, these disturbers of American peace. I shall turn the searchlight of inquiry onto the German-American Bund, the German Embassy and German consular offices, where shelter and comfort and financial support undoubtedly were given these violations of our laws."

"Additional laws must be drafted; greater appropriations must be made to the army and navy intelligence departments. Naturalization statutes must be strengthened and severe penalties provided for those taking out citizenship papers for the purpose of diverting suspicion while they act as spies."

"I shall also urge legislation giving the federal government specific power, by franchise or licence, to control use of our ports by foreign lines such as the Hapag-Lloyd, which aided several of the spy suspects to escape from this country without Douty died in a York nursing home on July 11 after attending a dance in Oswaldkirk village hall.

Reid, who was cautioned before giving evidence, said that he separated Douty and another man.

"Douty threw a lighted cigarette into my face, and hit me a violent blow," he said. "I struck him back in self-defence merely to protect myself."

Miss Hermione Mary Josephine Moslyn, of Havelock Hall, Tamworth, Staffs, said that during the dance she and Douty went out twice to their car to have drinks. She noticed a bottle of beer on top of the car.

SMASHED GLASS

A man tried to take the bottle from the roof, and Douty seemed to resent this. Later, as they were driving away, she heard a smashing of glass against the car, and Douty got out and went back.

Above five minutes later Douty got back into the car and said, "I am very sorry. They have beaten me up."

A man named Harrison came up and said, "You accused us of throwing a bottle. You have had something to drink and we won't stand for that."

Douty started growling and bleeding, and Harrison drove him to Malton. He said he did not know who had struck Douty.

Harry Harrison, employed by the Civilian Anti-Gas School, Easingwold, said he had been to the dance and was waiting to be taken home. Douty accused him of throwing a glass at his car and he denied it. He turned and walked away, and then saw some one strike Douty.

The coroner asked a Mr. Reid to stand up in the court, and Harrison said that Reid was the man who struck Douty. He understood he was a Liverpool policeman and a student at the anti-gas school.

Reid appeared to strike Douty in the face with his fists and then hold him by the collar.

Miss Dorothy Johnson, pretty, blue-eyed, village girl, said that Harrison did not throw a glass at the car. Douty appeared to knock a cigarette out of Reid's mouth.

Stewart Affleck Reid said in evidence that he was absolutely sober when he left the dance.

"VIOLENT"

Reid said he had nothing to do with breaking the glass. Douty walked back to them shouting, seized Harrison and appeared to strike him.

"I separated them, and Douty then snatched a lighted cigarette from my mouth and threw it back in my face. He hit me a violent blow."

"I struck him back in self-defence merely to protect myself and to avoid a disturbance."

Dr. Visick said that Douty's skull was in places translucent. If a man with such a skull received a blow between the eyes it might cause a fatal injury without leaving bruises.

When the jury returned a verdict of "Manslaughter" the coroner said their verdict would be that the cause of Douty's death was a blow struck by Reid.

Reid was then committed for trial. Bail was fixed at £100.

passports or visas. Such legislation would empower the government to forbid the use of United States ports by foreign lines conspiring to violate our statutes."

METHODISTS AND MARRIAGE

Divided View On A Declaration

DANGER OF MODERN SEX FRANKNESS

The Methodist Conference, at its final session at Hull, decided to refer back to committee for further consideration and report to the next conference a 10-page declaration on the "Christian View of Marriage and the Family."

The declaration was placed before the conference by the Temperance and Social Welfare Department. Explaining it, the Rev. E. C. Urwin, London, secretary of the department, said it was the work of 18 people for over two years.

"The immediate future of marriage is not easy to foretell," said Mr. Urwin. "There are new tendencies at work; new standards; a claim to sexual freedom that is positively revolting in some quarters."

"NOT EVIL THING"

"There is a new frankness which may not easily be put on one side, which wants to be guided in the right way, and a new interest in sex which, while it is healthy at first, may easily become an obsession and an influence in the wrong way."

There was a call to Methodism to stand on its own, and declare its convictions with courage before the world. They had decided that they must start with a positive view on what marriage implied.

"That is why we have declared that sex itself is not to be regarded as an evil thing, but a gift of God," he continued.

"There are far too many unhappy marriages, and one of the reasons for them is that they are taken wrongly. People have inadequate knowledge sometimes, with low ideals, and are altogether unprepared for that adjustment of personality which marriage must inevitably involve. That is why we have laid so much stress upon elementary school education."

BIRTH CONTROL

If they had said nothing about birth control they would have taken the coward's way. What in effect they had said was that outside of marriage contraception was wrong.

The judgment of the Roman Church was that it was also wrong within marriage.

But there were certain considerations which might make legitimate to the Christian conscience—those considerations being physical and mental health, and the spiritual relationship of men and women within marriage.

The Rev. C. Ennor Walters, London, said: "I do not hesitate to say that I believe all birth control is against the laws of God. You talk about the Roman Church—but it is the one Church to-day that is not being decimated by lots of its people." There were cries of "No."

The Rev. Noel F. Hutcher (Birmingham) moved a resolution, which was carried, urging the Government to restrict advertising methods designed to encourage the sale of contraceptive appliances to young people.

Dr. E. G. Bryant, of Birmingham, seconding, said that advertisements and supplies were being sent regularly to secondary schools and to boys of 15 and 16.

"I HAVE LOST 20 LBS. OF FAT"

Woman's Joyful Letter

It was a candid remark by an acquaintance that started this woman thinking about her overweight. Read her letter:—

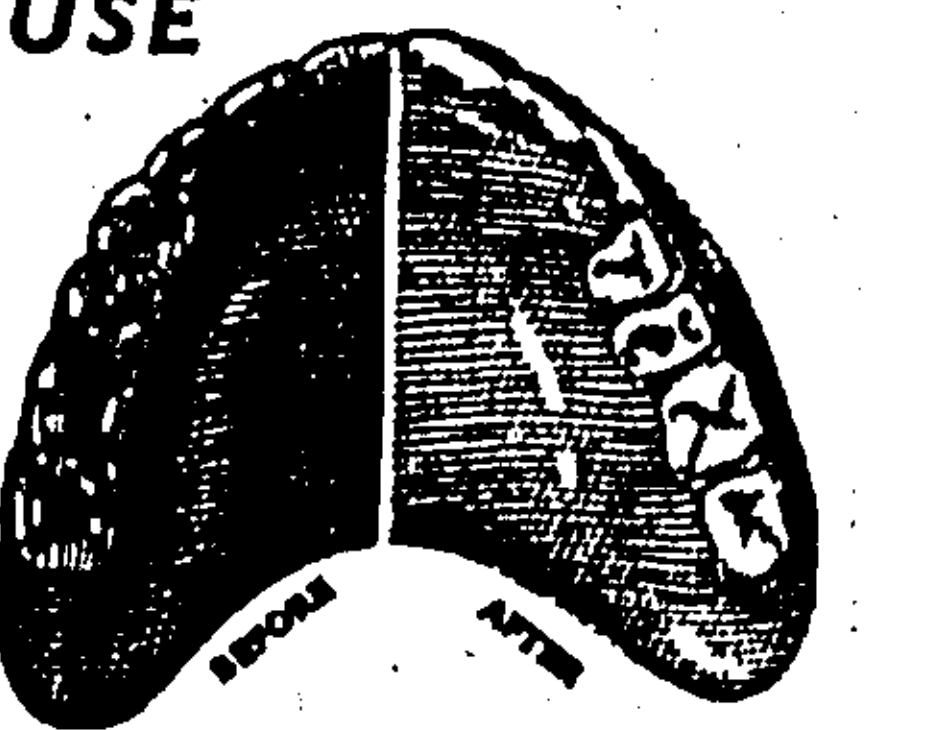

"I must write and tell you how pleased I am with Kruschen Salts. I have reduced from 10 stone to 8 stone 8 lbs. I am 35 years old, and 5 feet in height. I really started taking Kruschen through being angry. I had been at a party, and a lady remarked across the table: 'My, you are getting fat,' and I determined I would show them. So I got a bottle of Kruschen and altered my diet, but I do not starve myself. I started the Kruschen treatment four months ago, and I have lost 20 lbs. of fat."

—(Mrs.) P.R.

Kruschen combats the cause of fat by assisting the internal organs to throw off each day those waste products and poisons which, if allowed to accumulate, will be converted by the body's chemistry into fatty tissue. Gently, but surely, Kruschen aids the system of all fat-forming food refuse, of all harmful acids and poisons which incidentally give rise to rheumatism, digestive disorders, and many other ills.

R.A.F. ESCORT FOR AIRWOMAN

Nairobi. Miss Joan Parsons, the Leamington airwoman who arrived here recently after being forced down in the bush on a flight from Cape Town to London, will not be allowed to proceed over the Sudan without an escort. This will probably be furnished by R.A.F. machines.

Miss Parsons, who came down about 200 miles from Mbeya, Tanganyika, was located by a native, who ran 30 miles to inform the District Officer. He at once set off up the Rufiji River in a motor-boat, and on reaching the spot set about cutting a runway through the long grass for the plane.

In the local Press here it is suggested that some form of compulsory insurance should be introduced for private pilots, which would cover the expenditure of public money involved in rescue work.

FLOODS IN ASSAM

Calcutta. Three-quarters of the town of Dibrugarh, Assam, is under water and the River Brahmaputra is still rising owing to the monsoon flooding. Hundreds of persons are homeless and are taking refuge in the railway station, the railway being used as transport. The rice is likely to continue for six weeks.

£2,000,000 Railway Surplus.—It is expected that the Indian State Railways will show a surplus of £2,000,000 for the past year. This is an increase of 50 per cent. on the previous year's figures.

Tea Planters' Marriage.—The churches are organising for the removal of the fairly general ban on British tea planters in India marrying until they become managers.

Plane as Ambulance.—Lt.-Col. J. W. T. Glover, British Resident in Kashmir, has embarked at Bombay in the P. and O. liner Makha, 20,014 tons, for London. He is going home for health reasons, and flew 600 miles in an R.A.F. plane from Karachi.

Boy Took "Down-and Out" On Trip to France

BOUGHT HIM CLOTHES WITH STOLEN MONEY

Boys were responsible for exploits which astonished magistrates in Juvenile Courts recently.

There was the 15-year-old lad of Leeds who pleaded guilty to 15 charges, mostly of theft.

On May 31 he was sent to a remand home. On that same day he absconded.

Walking into an office at Stan-ningley, he stole a wallet containing £5, then took train to London.

HIS NEW SUIT

Detective Bradford, of Leeds C.I.D., said the story of the boy's subsequent activities resembled fiction rather than fact.

On arriving in London he bought the suit of clothes he was now wearing. Later, he walked into a Baker Street flat and took £15 from a pair of trousers hanging in a bedroom.

Shortly afterwards, he met a man of about 23 who said he was "down and out." The boy befriended the man and clothed him.

The boy said the man told him his father lived in Le Touquet, and together they went to Folkestone and then to Dover.

SHORT OF MONEY

From Dover they took a boat to Calais and afterwards went to Boulogne, the boy paying all expenses.

Back in Folkestone the boy found himself short of money so he went into the office of an hotel and took £19 from a cash-box.

Later, the "down-and-out" and the boy returned to London and parted near Marble Arch.

"Amazing," commented the chairman of magistrates, remanding the boy to await removal to an approved school.

Then there were the two boys of Birmingham, aged seven and nine, who crawled along the 18-inch parapet of a railway bridge 80ft. up, climbed a 20ft. drainpipe to a factory roof, and entered by removing a pane from a skylight.

Inside they stole two penknives and, taking letters from a drawer, threw them on the fire. After that they went to the garage and, by releasing the brakes, caused lorries to crash into one another.

The younger boy, when seen by a police officer, said to him: "Wotcher, chief. This will mean ten years this time."

New Riding Penalties Urged

Details of the Bill, sponsored by Capt. F. F. A. Hedges, Conservative M.P. for Bury St. Edmunds, which seeks to register and inspect all horse-riding schools, were made known recently.

Here are the main provisions: Local authorities to keep a register of riding schools in their areas.

No person who is not a British subject or who is under 21 to be entitled to registration.

Registration to be for one year and to cost £1 1s.

Power to be given to any qualified veterinary surgeon, authorised by the local authority, to inspect a riding establishment and its horses.

Offences under the Bill include non-registration and letting out a horse in an unfit condition.

Penalties: A fine not exceeding £25 for the first offence and not exceeding £50 for any subsequent offence; disqualification from the register.

FIVE TIMES AS MANY

Wide approval of the Bill has been expressed. Figures in the possession of the National Horse Association show that in the last four years riding schools have increased from 400 to more than 2,000.

This is largely attributed to the new-found popularity of horse-riding among business girls. Many of the smaller schools are alleged to be run on slipshod lines, with suffering to the horses.

Capt. Hedges told a reporter that he has been promised support from members of all parties in the House.

GIANT OF ATLANTIC SLEPT IN TWO CABINS AT ONCE

Plymouth, July 31. FIRST TRANSATLANTIC LINER PASSENGER TO SLEEP IN TWO CABINS AT ONCE IS HENRY HITE, AMERICAN VAUDEVILLE ARTIST. HE ARRIVED AT PLYMOUTH TO-DAY WITH TWO COMPANIONS ON HIS WAY TO LONDON.

Henry is twenty-two, 7 ft. 9 in. tall—15 inches taller than Primo Carnera.

Three-Hour Talk Cured Him Disliked His Partner: Became "III"

A MAN of thirty, afraid he might drop dead at any minute, was cured by Dr. T. A. Ross, London psychologist, in three hours.

The "cure" consisted of talking to him.

Dr. Ross told members of the British Medical Association about it at their conference in Plymouth.

The man's heart palpitations and insomnia were so bad that he was afraid to go out alone yet nothing could be found medically wrong with him.

Said Dr. Ross: "In the first hour I learned that he had a business partner with whom he disliked working. Then he told me that, when he was a child and had diphtheria, he had been ordered to

To accommodate him in the liner Champlain, the French Line had to make a hole in a dividing wall so that he could sleep with his head in one berth and his feet in the next.

Henry wears size 22 shoes and weighs 20 stone six lbs. Primo Carnera is fourteen pounds lighter.

Henry is one of a trio who are to appear at the London Palladium.

While Henry walked down the liner gangway in three strides, Stanley Ross, the midjet of the party, could not manage it in less than 20.

Stanley is five years older than Henry, but 55 inches shorter.

Thirty-two-year-old Tommy Lowe, the normal sized member, is five feet five inches.

"Everything I wear has to be specially made, with the one exception of neck-ties," said Henry, "but a suit costs me no more than the average man, because the bills of cloth left over are always sufficient to make a suit for little Stanley, and we split the cost."

he still 'because of your heart.'

"Those words remained in his subconscious mind until he became unhappy and distressed. Then they took the form of fear for his heart."

"I talked to him about this for three hours. As soon as he understood, he was quite well again."

MORE CHANGES IN ENGLAND TEST TEAM LIKELY

D. V. P. WRIGHT LATEST PLAYER TO BE INJURED

WOOD OF YORKSHIRE TO TAKE AMES' POSITION

London, Aug. 19. The latest England Test cricketer to be injured is Douglas Wright, of Kent. While taking a catch to-day in the match between Kent and Leicestershire, the young leg-break bowler was injured in the first finger of his bowling hand. The ball struck the end of the finger and forced back the nail.

In consequence of this injury, Wright had to retire. However, the doctor who attended to his injury considered that he would be able to play in the Test at the Oval to-morrow.

It was in the same match that Leslie Ames, the England wicket-keeper, was hurt.

Although his doctor says that Wright would be able to play, it is considered likely that Peter Smith, the Essex spin bowler, will replace him in the England team.

The decision whether to play Smith will be deferred until the weather to-morrow morning is known.

A. Wood, the Yorkshire wicket-keeper, who has been knocking at the door of Test matches for a long time, has at last got his chance. He has been invited to attend at the Oval.

Furthermore, M. S. Nichols, the Essex fast bowler, has also been invited to the Oval as a "precautionary measure."

GOOD WEATHER

London, Aug. 20. "Occasional showers, bright periods, cool."

This is the weather forecast for the Test Match. The groundsman at the Oval says the wicket will last until Christmas. Wood, who is to keep wickets, is an excellent wicket-keeper, but he is not in the same class as Ames as a batsman. However, he has the advantage of being used to taking Verity, Bowes and Leyland.

Nichols, an all-rounder, has completed his 1,000 runs and 100 wickets for the season. Possibly Farnes may be dropped in his favour.

England has an opening batsmen problem. Fagg, Edrich and Hutton are available but all are inexperienced.—Reuter.

COUNTY CRICKET MATCHES

Rain interfered with the fixture between Glamorgan and Lancashire at Swansea, the latter winning on first innings.

Lancashire scored 383, to which Glamorgan replied with 272 (Wilkinson 8 for 86). After Lancashire had made 87 for four wickets, there was no further play. There was no play at all to-day.

LEICESTER v. KENT

At Oakham, Kent defeated Leicestershire by nine wickets.

Kent rattled off 510 in their first innings, of which B. H. Valentine scored 242 and Knott 108. Leicestershire scored 223 (Woolley 5 for 49) and 340 (Woolley 6 for 57). Kent then hit up 46 for the loss of one wicket.

WARWICK v. SURREY

At Birmingham, Surrey defeated Warwickshire on first innings.

Surrey scored 410 (Parker 111, Cronin 5 for 60) and 121 for five wickets declared, and Warwickshire replied with 335 and 103 for three.

WORCESTER v. SOMERSET

At Worcester, Worcestershire defeated Somerset by 45 runs.

Worcestershire made 140 (Wellard 7 for 59) and 300 (Hazzell 5 for 50), and in reply Somerset scored 196

MIDDLESEX v. ESSEX
At Lord's, Middlesex defeated Essex by ten wickets.
Essex scored 108 (Robins 4 for 33) and 309 (O'Connor 122, Smith 4 for 73), and Middlesex made 302 (D. Compton 180 not out) and 26 for 0.—Reuter.

R. WHITCOMBE CARRIES OFF ANOTHER BIG GOLF PRIZE

London, Aug. 19. The News Chronicle Golf Championship, held at Brighton, was won by Reginald Whitcombe, the British "Open" champion, who had scores of 74, 75, 76, 75.

H. B. Rhodes, of South Herefordshire, was second with 73, 73, 77, 70, and C. Denny of Thorpe Hall had 77, 72, 72, 81.

Ken Williams failed in his final round, his scores being 74, 70, 82, 83.—Reuter.

Germans Outplayed Completely

DRAB DAVIS CUP MATCH ENDED

Chestnut Hills, Mass., Aug. 19. One of the drabdest international tennis matches in years was concluded to-day when John Bromwich and Adrian Panatier, of Australia, trounced Henner Henkel and G. von Metaxa, of Germany, in the doubles of the Inter-Zone final of the Davis Cup Competition.

The Australians won with the greatest of ease, the scores being 6-2, 6-1, 6-4.
Henkel's service throughout was very poor. He held it only once throughout the whole game.

The results of the two previous singles matches were:
Bromwich (Australia) beat Henkel (Germany), 6-2, 6-3, 6-3.
Quist (Australia) beat Metaxa (Germany), 6-3, 6-2, 6-1.
Australia thus won the rubber by three matches to nil, and will meet United States in the Challenge Round on September 1.—United Press.

LAST YEAR'S TIE NOW DECIDED

Manchester, Mass., Aug. 19. An unusual match was played here to-day. Last year Mrs. D. B. Andrus and Madame Henrotin reached the final of the women's singles tournament here, but rain prevented the game from being decided. To-day, Mrs. Andrus and Madame Henrotin met, the former winning by 6-4, 6-4.

In the semi-finals of this year's championship, Miss Alice Marble (U.S.) defeated Miss Kay Stammers (England) 7-5, 6-4 in the singles and Miss Dorothy Stevenson and Miss Nancy Wynne of Australia beat Miss Dorothy Workman and Miss Dorothy Bundy of United States 6-3, 6-0 in the doubles.—United Press.

FIFTH TEST TO COMMENCE AT OVAL TO-DAY

Paul Gibb Passed Over By English Selectors

AS Australia, by virtue of her victory at Leeds in the Fourth Test, has already made sure of retaining the "Ashes", interest in the Fifth Test, which commences at the Oval to-day, is naturally not as great as it would otherwise be had the rubber depended on the result of this game. Nevertheless, though the "Ashes" are not at stake, the fact that the match will be played to a finish irrespective of how many days it is going to take will probably ensure the Surrey crowd of plenty of good cricket. The new rule with regard to the present Test series says: "If after the conclusion of the fourth Test match, the difference in matches won is not greater than one, the fifth Test match shall be played to a finish." Under the old arrangement a definite result at Leeds would have meant an Oval match limited to four days, and the first consideration of the team winning at Leeds would naturally be to play for a draw at the Oval to ensure winning the rubber. This would have tended to produce defensive cricket of an uninteresting nature. The chance of purely defensive tactics in the fifth Test by the team one up in this case Australia is now eliminated. We are assured of an interesting match with both sides forced to play for a win.

Gibb's Chance

THOUGH a final decision has not yet been made at the time of writing, it seems possible that Leslie Ames, the Kent and England wicket-keeper, who injured his finger again in the match between his county and Leicestershire, may retire from the England team; for unless he was perfectly fit and well, it would be inadvisable to play him in a play-to-a-finish match. While Ames' absence will weaken the English batting to some extent, it may provide Paul Gibb, the Cambridge and Yorkshire player, with the opportunity he has been waiting for. Gibb has been described as the "unluckiest" University player of the season. Picked for the Third Test after Ames had injured a finger in the Second, Gibb did not have a chance to get his Test cap because rain completely washed out the fixture at Manchester. Chosen again for the Fourth Test at Leeds, he was injured before the match and had to give way to W. F. Price, of Middlesex. It would be poetic justice if Ames' injury now gives Gibb a chance to win a cap which would have been his weeks ago had fate not been so cruel.

(Since the above was written, it has been announced that A. Wood, of Yorkshire has been invited to attend at the Oval. Gibb is not to have his chance after all.)

Allen Unfit

FEW people in Hongkong, I would imagine, know that G. O. B. Allen, captain of the M.C.C. team to Australia in the 1936-37 tour was recently watched by the English selectors early this month. Allen, who has been on the injured list for most of this season, had a very long spell of bowling for Middlesex at Hove, and it was noticed that at the end of one hour he was bowling as fast as in his opening overs. Although 45 runs were hit off him before he met with any success, he then captured five wickets for 15 runs—three of them clean bowled—and so returned quite a respectable analysis. In Sussex's second innings, Allen again started off at his fastest, but after he had taken three wickets for 45 runs he pulled a leg muscle and had to retire. This disposed of any idea of Allen being fit to take part in the final Test. At any rate, it is doubtful whether Allen would have displaced him as England's fast bowler in any circumstances.

Bowls Interport

NOW that the Hongkong L.B.A. has approved of the date proposed by Shanghai for an interport bowls team to visit the Colony, the northerners are going ahead with their arrangements. With the date of departure, October 5, already fixed, the most important thing confronting the Shanghai L.B.A. is to select the team. The L.B.A. is to be limited as the team will be picked from those players only who can make the trip. Shanghai clubs have already received notice from S.L.B.A. concerning the Interport and those players who can go have been asked to put forward their names. It is understood that a number of prominent players, including several members of the Shanghai Lawn Bowls Club, have already signified their willingness to visit Hongkong. The Shanghai team will probably be seven in number, comprising four regular members of the team, two reserves and a manager.

Ban On Husbands

WE have heard plenty lately about the ban on the wives of Australian cricketers, but what about the ban on husbands? asks Geoffrey Simpson.

No one, to my knowledge, has interviewed the husbands of the South African golf women who have been touring England, or even troubled to ask the R. and A. what they thought about it.

Nevertheless, the husbands of Mrs. Douglas, Mrs. Stevenson, Mrs. Withersow, and Mrs. Wilkinson, the tourists in question, were banned from seeing their wives on the tour. The golf games being finished, the ban is now lifted, and the four women are being rejoined in England by their golf widowers.

Well—it was nice while it lasted. The South African visitors were treated to luxury golf while they were here, being whisked from course to course in smart cars and housed in country homes, the guests of well-to-do golfing families. In ten weeks they have learned more of Britain's courses than most resident Britishers learn in a lifetime.

Shute Twins Win Doubles Tournament

Open To Schoolboys Of England

Warwick and Kenneth Shute—remember them as the Tennis Twins of Hongkong?—are back in the news again. They have just won the schoolboys doubles tennis championship of England, a prize which they have had in mind ever since they started to play in tournaments.

News of this success has just reached Hongkong, although no details of how it was accomplished are yet available.

Kenneth and Warwick are now 15 years of age, and during their three years stay in the Colony they have come two of the biggest attractions in the Colony tennis championships. For two years they delighted spectators when they appeared together, and although in 1937 Warwick could not play because he was suffering from tennis elbow, Kenneth competed in the doubles with his father, and they advanced as far as the third round before losing to E. C. Fincher and W. C. Hung. Kenneth also played with ability in the singles and won through three rounds before losing to Frank Kwok after a tremendous fight.

The Shute Twins.

They boys have been back in England just over a year, and it says much for constant endeavour that they have scored such an important success as winning the schoolboys' doubles championship of England.

Their progress has been normal and regular. At the age of 11 they advanced through four rounds of the Public Schools Junior championship, and later won junior tournaments in various parts of the country. After coming to Hongkong they continued to make noted progress, and when they left indicated they were fully capable of giving a good account of themselves in senior tournaments. Tennis enthusiasts in Hongkong will hear of their latest triumph with considerable pleasure.

HONGKONG ON WAY TO RECORD SURPLUS

Although Hongkong's revenue for June this year was $17,847 less than in the corresponding month last year, the Colony is on its way towards a record surplus.

Total revenue for June was $2,091,180, bringing the total since January 1 to $18,027,842, which, with six months of the year still to come, is within $12,237,078 of the estimated total of $30,254,920. If the present income is maintained the estimate will be exceeded by at least $8,000,000.

Revenue for the first half of the year exceeded expenditure by $1,272,372, bringing the Colony's surplus balance of assets over liabilities to $15,274,660, which is a new record. Expenditure during June was $2,551,509, making the total for the first six months of 1938 $10,755,470, almost two millions more than in the corresponding period last year.

Principal increases in expenditure this year have been for the Harbour Office, Medical Department, Kowloon Canton Railway, Military Contributions and Pensions for civil servants.

Principal increases in revenue during June were in the Post Office, which will almost certainly have a record surplus for the year, the Kowloon Canton Railway and land sales.

Revenue from the Kowloon-Canton Railway for June was $109,512, exactly double the revenue for the corresponding month last year. The railway revenue for the first six months of the year totals $1,013,922, which is four lakhs in excess of the revenue for the corresponding period in 1937 and exceeds the estimated revenue for the whole of 1938.

Decline in Hongkong revenue during June was caused by a slump in miscellaneous receipts, which fell to $120,828, compared with $557,018 last June.

Land sales still continued buoyant, the total for June being $115,759, compared with $221 in the same month last year.

Land sales are one of the brightest features of the Colony's Revenue. In 1937 the total was $145,720 which, in the first six months of 1938, has already been exceeded by $205,250.

Italy Trying To Mediate In China War

London, Aug. 20. Italy is secretly attempting to mediate in the Sino-Japanese War, according to a foreign diplomat in London.

A tentative arrangement has already been arrived at with the former Chinese Premier, Mr. Wang Ching-wel to negotiate peace after the Japanese capture Hankow.

The diplomat described Mr. Wang as virtually second-in-command to Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek. He said that the Italians have been working in Shanghai, Hankow and Hongkong since last June, and have obtained Mr. Wang Ching-wel's agreement to the proposals which, he alleges, are that Mr. Wang should send a representative to Tokyo to discuss terms with Prince Kanoye; secondly, that he should seek leniency from Marshal Chiang Kai-shek, since Chiang's consent would be necessary in order to establish peace with a Government under Mr. Wang; and thirdly, in the event of Mr. Wang Ching-wel coming into power, China will join the Italo-German-Japanese anti-Comintern Pact.—United Press.

PATIENT LEAPS TO HIS DEATH

Tam Sang, a patient of the Kwong Wah Hospital is reported to have committed suicide yesterday by jumping from the top floor verandah. He was killed instantly.

China Can't Be Beaten

London, Aug. 20. The Berlin Correspondent of the Daily Telegraph and Morning Post says that it is understood that General Von Falkenhausen, the leader of the former German military advisers to the Chinese Army, has expressed the opinion that China is unconquerable.

Baron von Falkenhausen arrived in Berlin with his wife this week. He is understood to have expressed the opinion that Chiang Kai-shek is able to wage war against Japan for half a century, if necessary. He points out that the Japanese could not produce new recruits indefinitely and the Chinese in the occupied areas will never fight their own countrymen.

The General and his colleagues regard time as Japan's greatest enemy and they are certain that within five years Japan will be forced to withdraw her armies from China.

The Chinese army is far better trained and equipped than the Japanese expected and is to-day playing the part of the Russian armies during Napoleon's Moscow campaign. Japanese troops, harried by guerrilla tactics, are gradually being whittled away.—Reuter.
